Certainly hope several members made it to the AOPA Fly-In at Livermore. Alice and I both made it for Friday, she left early to attend a family event, I stayed thru the STOL demonstration in the early evening, While Alice manned the 99 booth in the trade show, I attended a couple seminars, checked out that trade show, wandered thru the aircraft and caught up with friends. Sally and I met working river trips, she met Jimmy thru sky diving friends, he is ex Air Force, flew for FedEx, raced at Reno Air Races (just found that out a year ago) and somewhere along the line got involved with the STOL crowd. It was fun to hang out with them, meet some of those individuals that really know how to get the most out of a plane's capability. Each plane had certain capabilities although were limited by the fact they were operating off a paved taxiway. This was a demonstration, not a competition, no one was heavy on the brakes so as to take care of those smooth tires. Nevertheless, their landing distances were very short....and some of those planes just leaped into the air, Quite the display of skills!!

Womens Soaring Pilots Association

Promoting all aspects of soaring for women glider pilots.

The WSPA was founded June 11, 1986 in Tucson, AZ. The charter meeting was the result of a year's effort and input by the pilots who attended the 1985 Women Soaring Seminar at Air Sailing near Reno, NV. Our current membership exceeds 200 pilots including International pilots.

The highlight of each year is the Annual Women Soaring Seminar where members from all over the country meet to encourage and support each other and to soar.

KATRINA ESPINOZA

(excerpt from a letter written to Alice)

I am leaving for Australia in mid July because I was selected by Civil Air Patrol to represent the U.S. in the International Air Cadet Exchange. There are four of us cadet ambassadors assigned to Australia, and we will be spending almost 3 weeks there as guests of the Royal Australian Air Force. It is very exciting because I will be meeting cadet ambassadors from several other countries who are similarly enthusiastic about aviation. When I return in August, I will have only a week or so to finish packing and preparing for college. Since the 3rd Wednesday in August is the day before I leave for college and my flight is early the next morning, I will probably not make it to the August meeting.

I'm grateful for the kind thoughts and welcome the 99s extended to me when I first began my aviation journey. I know that wherever we are, we will always share the joy of flying!

Best regards,
Katrina

Interesting Books to read and/or listen to available at Costco and/or SmileAmazon

"The Flight Girls by Noelle Salazar is an unforgettable and beautifully written historical novel about a fascinating piece of WWII history, the women pilots in the WASP program. Salazar masterfully weaves a story of female strength and friendship, with an emotionally resonant epic love story.

"Audrey Coltrane, the protagonist dreams of owning an airfield. It's an unusual ambition for a young woman born to a wealthy Texas oil family, especially in 1941, but Audrey has always loved to fly.

As a team she earned a pilot's license and ran crop-dusting missions. When World War II nears American's shores, Audrey applies her skills and bravery to the war effort, eventually securing a place in the WASP."

Here is a new UPDATED version of this popular book that tells the fascinating story of the first women to fly U.S. military aircraft—the Women Airforce Service Pilots (WASPs) of World War II. First published a dozen years ago, Yankee Doodle Gals has now been updated to add new photos and text about the crowning honor the WASP pilots received just three years ago: the Congressional Gold Medal.

These additions, along with an updated Bibliography and Resources section, let Yankee Doodle Gals now cover the full span of the WASPs' inspiring story. Although these pioneers were never allowed to fly in combat, they flew in many essential wartime missions—some that male pilots didn't even want to take on.

Through firsthand accounts, these women share their experiences as they test-fly newly repaired aircraft, drag banners behind their planes so male trainees can practice shooting moving targets with live ammunition (!), and ferry all kinds of aircraft from factories to military bases. Their courage, determination, and lively camaraderie make every page inspiring and surprising.

Yankee Doodle Gals will give today's young people a new look at World War II and show them just how dramatically society has changed since then.
