By Claudia Contreras

During the Section meeting I had to give a one minute report on activities that we have done as a Chapter. There was no way that I could list them all in one minute, no matter how fast I talked. That doesn't mean that we should do any less, I had to condense it and below is what I had to say about our wonderful Chapter.

As a Chapter We have done a lot for our four GA airports in the Monterey Bay Area, and like other places, there is so much more that can be done, I could take the full 1 minute trying to list everything we have done, that means i would have to speak as fast as ATC, and like ATC only 10% of what I say would be understood, so I am going to thank the Monterey Bay ladies for keeping the Chapter going, without them there wouldn't be a Monterey Bay Chapter and that means that a young girl or woman wouldn't have received financial support to continue/start flying lessons. The Watsonville and Salinas pilots associations wouldn't have to share their members at the air shows, tenant day activities, safety seminars, and Young Eagle events. They would take all the credit and all the glory. Children from the Salinas area wouldn't get aviation toys during the Share Your Holiday drive. Marina airport wouldn't have a compass rose.

Our beautiful light blue tent made by Geneva wouldn't be on display at the Watsonville airshow, it'd be locked away in the end room collecting dust, but most importantly I wouldn't have met any of them and have their support and their irreplaceable friendship.

2013 Spring Section Meeting By: Your Proud Chairman

This years Section meeting was held in Bakersfield, CA. The Bakersfield Chapter put on a very fun, informative Section meeting. Six Monterey Bay members attended the conference: Donna Crane Bailey, Alice Talnack, Joanne Nissen, Theresa Levandoski-Byers, Michael Sersasio, and Claudia Contreras. From the beginning it was great, we all flew in to Bakersfield. Upon arriving and landing at what was one of the longest displaced thresholds ever, the tower welcomed us by saying, "Welcome 99s." I know that put a smile on my face. After taxiing to the Jet Center, we all got great service with rolled out their mats and a heartwarming welcome sign. The FBO was beautiful and the staff more than willing to assist. Alice and I got there just in time to be shuttled off to the wine tasting. After an hour and 45 minute flight, a little wine was more than welcomed. The ice cold water was even more appreciated.

At the hotel there was another welcome sign, makes you feel so proud to be a 99. On Friday some of the 99s went white water rafting and some stayed behind at the hotel to socialize. No matter what you chose to do it was fun and there were lots of 99s to meet or catch up with. The Friday night Basque dinner was family style and they managed to fit all of us in the room.

The Saturday night banquet was a great time to be a member of the Monterey Bay Chapter. We won 3 out of 3 awards. Congratulations to all of you/us: Airmarking award, Aerospace and Education Award. It's not official because there is no award but the Wings award, too, since we had more members receiving it than any other. I felt so very proud of all of you and to be your chairman at this time and forever a member.

The flight home on Sunday we encountered low ceilings and incredibly gusty winds. We all made it back and are ready to go on the next adventure.

I strongly encourage any of you to attend the next Section meeting. You get to meet so many interesting people and see things that you normally wouldn't.

New Tire Safety Course Available

For more info, go to FAASafety.gov

Anyone who notices the long black streaks at the approach end of a runway can appreciate the brutal forces aircraft tires endure during the transition from being airborne to earthbound, or vice versa. Exposed to a regular mix of temperature extremes, pressure changes, and powerful friction forces, aircraft tires definitely require special attention. With that in mind, the FAA Safety team (FAASTeam) and Michelin North America have partnered to create a new online course for tire safety:

ALC-269: The Impact of Tire Maintenance on Aircraft Safety.

The course focuses on two critical threats to safe tire operation: tire inflation pressure and foreign object debris (FOD). To take the course, go to www.FAASafety.gov. More information regarding aircraft tire care and service is available at www.airmichelin.com.

Window for Departure On Long Flights

Mark:

"Bob, specifically, what do you mean by a window for departure?"

Bob:

"I'm talking about developing, 36 to 48 hours in advance of your flight, options on a departure time which will be based on the weather, the route, stops you might make, fuel requirements, the load you'll be carrying, the altitude you intend to fly. All of those will be opposed to your aircraft capabilities to develop a window for departure."

Mark:

"So when you're planning an IFR flight, you don't have a fixed departure time in mind?"

Bob:

"That's right. What you want to do is allow yourself enough time in your flight planning to work around any significant weather issues that might occur on the day of departure. For example, if you need to be at Gary, Indiana, at 4:00 p.m. in the afternoon you should not plan your flight for departure at let's say 12:00 noon based on a four-hour en route flight. Instead you should develop a window for departure which might extend from 6:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon. And based on weather that particular day you can then have the option of departing at a time which will allow you to avoid, let's say, thunderstorms in the afternoon."

If you don't develop this window for departure you're sort of stuck with whatever weather occurs in the afternoon period. There may be other issues such as high winds forecasted that might influence our departure time. So what I'm suggesting is that you leave yourself options on the departure time, which will allow you to work around weather issues."

This 4-four workshop is designed for pilots and student pilots using or interested in using ForeFlight and/or JeppFD in the cockpit.

This class will lightly touch on WingX, Garmin Pilot and FlightGuide iEFB but is not designed to teach attendees how to use WingX, Garmin Pilot or FlightGuide iEFB.

We suggest you register early. If the class fills up, we will close enrollment and the web site will no longer accept registrations. The registration web site is www.ennect.com/e2061.
