On Extended Wings Ackerman, Diane Collier Macmillan 1985 Hard Cover/with dust Jacket

Donated by Laura Barnett—January 2009 In this remarkable paean to flying, award-winning poet Diane Ackerman invites us to ride jump seat as she takes—literally and figuratively—to the sky. On Extended Wings tells the story of how she gained mastery over the mysteries of flight and earned her private pilot's license, of her frustration and exhilaration during hours of lessons and seemingly endless touch-and-go's, of her first solo and her first cross-country flights, of the teachers and pilots and aviation enthusiasts she befriended and flew with.

The Mercury 13 The Untold Story of Thirteen American Women and the Dream of Space Flight

Ackmann, Martha Random House 2003 Hard Cover w/dust jacket

Donated by the Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015 A provocative tribute to these extraordinary women, The Mercury 13 is an unforgettable story of determination, resilience, and inextinguishable hope.

Father Adams Adams, Nick Tate Publishing & Enterprises, LLC 2014 Soft Cover Autographed

Donated by Laura Barnett—August 2014 Father Adams has something for all kinds of readers, and it will be a fast, sometimes turbulent roller coaster ride that ends with a revelation of the human spirit. The characters come alive and invite the reader in the quest of returning home alive. Anyone who has experienced feelings of fear, anger, or exhilaration will have empathy for Father Mike Cross and his cohort, Nick Adams. A simple vacation turns into a world of trouble and then unfolds into the adventure of a lifetime. (Nick Adams was born in Santa Cruz, California)

Aviation The Early Years Almond, Peter Produced by The Hulton Getty Picture Collection Limited, Unique House 1997 Hard Cover with dust jacket

Donated by Sharon Reeder—March 2012 This book chronicles the first years of manpowered flight in photographs, from the end of the last century to the era of the great Zeppelins. Within the space of a few years at the turn of the 20th century the world shrank. Vast distances were traversed by air, technology raced ahead and whole new concepts of human activity became possible. It was a time of high excitement and experimentation—and from the start the camera recorded it.

The Wild Blue The Men and Boys Who Flew The B-24s Over Germany 1944-45
Ambrose, Stephen E.

Simon & Schuster 2001 Softcover Donated by Joanne Nissen—April 2013
Stephen Ambrose is the acknowledged dean of the historians of World War II in Europe. In three highly acclaimed, bestselling volumes, he has told the story of the bravery, steadfastness, and ingenuity of the ordinary young men, the citizen soldiers, who fought the enemy to a standstill—the band of brothers who endured together.

When Grandma Learned To Fly A Flight Instructor's Nightmare Ames, Earline with Roy Richardson

Leap Frog Press 1998 Softcover Donated by Kay Harmon—November 2014
Has a dream ever captured your imagination and continued to haunt you as the years passed? This book tells the true story of a seventy-five-year-old woman who pursued a dream she had nurtured for over half a century: learning to fly an airplane. It is a story of teaching as much as it is of learning. It is a book for student pilots, flight instructors and dreamers. The tale vividly relates how an imaginative and competent teacher and a determined student achieved a goal that under different circumstances would have been impossible. There are humorous incidents, as well as episodes of despair and moments of elation. It is an adventure for all ages, especially for the young-in-heart.

Plane Safety And Survival Anderson M.D., Eric G. Aero Publishers 1978

Hard Cover w/o Dust Jacket Donated by Ann Walker—January 2006 This book's main focus is how to fly, enjoy and survive wilderness areas and remote terrain. Chapter topics include: weather, wilderness medicine, camping by plane, endurance and survival, desert flying, mountain flying, frozen terrain flying, flying wetlands and swamps, flying the forests, over water flying and the safe pilot and some psychological aspects of flying.

World Encyclopedia Of Civil Aircraft Angelucci, Enzo Chartwell Books 2001

Hard Cover w/Dust Jacket Donated by Anandi Heinrich—September 2003
For anyone interested in the history and the technology of aviation (and of model-making), this encyclopedic volume is a unique and irreplaceable resource, and a complete panorama of “flying machines”, from the drawings of Leonardo D Vinci to the latest in civil and commercial aircraft. With more than 3,000 images of airplanes accompanied by an impressive assemblage of information, this volume covers the entire world history of civil aviation.

The Sky Pirates The complete, authoritative story of aerial hijacking, describing what has happened and why

Arey, James A. Charles Scribner's Sons 1972 Hard Cover w/Dust Jacket
Donated by Donna Crane-Bailey—November 2003 The Sky Pirates is a comprehensive account of aerial hijacking, its causes and consequences. Between 1930 and mid-1971, there were 214 successful hijackings of commercial airliners, most of which have occurred in the last several years. In addition, there have been 92 abortive attempts, resulting in the death or capture of the hijackers. Cuba, of course, has been the most popular destination, with the Arab countries next.

Last of the Few The Battle of Britain in the Words of the Pilots Who Won It Arthur, Max Skyhorse Publishing 2011 Hard Cover w/jacket No one can relive the battle except the men who fought it and here they are in a tide of telling testimony.....expertly tracked down and anthologized by our foremost or historian of war.

Jonathan Livingston Seagull a story Bach, Richard The Macmillan Company 1970
Hard Cover w/Dust Jacket Donated by Louise Minniear—September 2001 Richard Bach is a writer and a pilot, author of Stranger to the Ground—already a modern classic—Biplane and Nothing by Chance. The author has written articles and stories for aviation and general magazines.

Out of my Mind The Discovery of Saunders-Vixen Bach, Richard William Morrow and Company, Inc. 1999 Hard Cover w/Dust Jacket Donated by Joanne Nissen—March 2004 In Out of my Mind, Bach takes off on an adventure across the boundaries of ordinary time and into the vast realm of creativity and imagination. The journey begins as Bach puzzles over design modifications for his airplane, a Piper Cub. Perfect designs—simple and practical—seem to come to him from nowhere. But when a design appears one day, along with fleeting glimpse of an intriguing woman, he sets out to discover the source of his visions.

Running from Safety An Adventure of the Spirit Bach, Richard William Morrow and Co. 1984
Hard Cover w/Dust Jacket Donated by Louise Minniear—September 2001 In this intimate adventure of mind and heart, the author sets out to show Dickie Bach, age nine, the things that matter, and finds his teaching doesn't go as planned. Here is a book spun from delight and disaster, and from surprising notions about old questions: Who are we? What do we want to do with our lives, and why aren't we doing it? Must we be the victim of circumstance instead of its master? How do we learn to love?

Letters From Amelia an intimate portrait of Amelia Earhart Backus, Jean L. Beacon Press Books 1982 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by The Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015 Letters From Amelia began quietly with the discovery of four neglected cardboard cartons in an attic in Berkeley, California. Inside were rare photographs and more than one hundred revealing letters from the legendary pilot to her beloved mother. The first was a four-year-old's thank-you note. The last, three short lines, was written just prior to her final 1937 flight, when she vanished into a Pacific mist of conjecture. Fitted together they portray the remarkable evolution from child to adult of a warm, sensible, fun-loving tomboy whose rare determination and bravery led her to become the first woman to fly the Atlantic solo.

Those Remarkable Mooneys Ball, Larry A. Ball Publishing 1998
Hard Cover/w Dust Jacket Donated by Alice Talnack—March 2007 This book offers a rare opportunity to chronicle the history of an aircraft design first offered in 1955....and still in production in 1998. Equally notable is the story of the airplane's designer, Al Mooney. His interest in airplanes began when he was only eight years old. His dad, who worked for the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad building wooden trestles, taught him the elements of drafting and advance layout work at an early age. The Denver Public Library became his home away from home. He studied every book and magazine they had on aviation and aircraft design.

The First War Planes Barrett, William E. Fawcett Publications, Inc. 1960
Soft Cover
Donated by Connie Breien—July 2006 A pictorial guide to airplanes from WWI, etc.

Sharpie The Life Story of Evelyn Sharp—Nebraska's Aviatrice Bartels, Diane Ruth Armour
Dageforde Publishing 1996 Soft Cover & autographed Born to parents who marry to give their baby a name, Evelyn Genevieve Sharp is adopted when only two months old. A move to the Nebraska Sandhills and an overdue room and board bill during Depression Times put her in the front seat of an Alexander Flyabout. She is a "natural," earning her private, commercial, and instructor's rating by age twenty. Sharpie is the biography of an early Nebraska barnstorming pilot who became one of the first women to ferry US Army Air Force fighters during World War II. It is the life story of a woman who simply loved to fly. (Please note: Evelyn Sharp gave Amelia Reid her first airplane ride)

The Complete Encyclopedia of Flight 1939-1945 Batchelor, John & Lowe, Malcolm V.
Chartwell Books, Inc. 2005 Hard Cover with dust jacket Donated by Laura A. Barnett—January 2015
The Complete Encyclopedia of Flight 1939-1945, Volume II comprises over one hundred and thirty of the great and distinctive airplanes from the Second World War period. Between 1939 and 1945, for the first time in military history, aviation took center stage, ultimately generating the decisive weapon of the war. World War Two saw advances in aviation technology and aircraft design which ultimately altered the way we think about flight.

BAX Seat Log of a Pasture Pilot Baxter, Gordon Tab Books 1988
Hardcover no dust jacket Donated by Pat York—July 2001 Gordon Baxter is an aviation writer who sees airplanes as the rest of us think we do or wish we could: as magic carpets that defy common sense and reward their masters with insights no ground-pounder could ever have. He sees airplane people not as the business fold, braggarts and conspicuous consumers that the rest of us think we recognize but as mystics, magicians, secret children with the world's biggest toys in their hands. He sees what aviation once was—an adventure that lifted its partakers out of the commonplace—and rejoices that what made it so indeed still exists in isolated pockets and patches, which Baxter seeks and finds.

More Bax Seat New Logs of a Pasture Pilot Baxter, Gordon Tab Books
mixes his stories with humor and wit of his flying experiences.

Strange Encounters Mysteries of the Air Beaty, David David Beaty 1982 Hard
Cover
Gathers the stories of disappearing airplanes, mysterious crashes, jinxed planes, vanished aviators, glimpses of the future, and extrasensory perception

Blue Confessions Bedard, David Tab Books 1993 First Edition Hard
Cover
If you enjoy aviation humor, you'll love this collection of entertaining stories taken from the popular Private Pilot magazine column, "Blue Confessions." Packed with more than 50 of the tallest tales, this book is guaranteed to make you laugh, whether you're actively involved in aviation or not.

Company 1985
Soft Cover This edition contains all the essential information contained in earlier editions plus additional material relating to new powerplants. Aircraft Powerplants, Fifth Edition, is designed to assist the student in attaining the proficiency levels defined in current Federal Aviation Regulations when used as a study text in connection with classroom discussions, demonstrations, and practical application.

The Flying Circus Berges, Emily Tafford William Morrow and Company, Inc.
1985 Hard Cover w/jacket Donated by Louise Minniear—September 2001 The book opens in 1952. The Rices, no longer a thrilling novelty, has become part of everyday life. The Rices, who have used their flying skills to defy convention and express their own free spirits, are about to become as obsolete as their one-engine Jenny. Holding them all together is Martha, the only one who has been able to resist the lure of the sky.
But she, like her aunts and like her sister, is also facing a moment of truth in which the ghosts of the past and the realities of the future must be confronted equally.

A Sky Of My Own Bernheim, Molly Macmillan Publishing Co., Inc. 1974 Hard Cover w/jacket The story of a remarkable woman who defied her fears, her gray hair, and her grandmotherly status, to discover the joys of flying her own plane.

Crazy in the Cockpit Blume, Randy DK Publishing, Inc. 1999 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Mary Saylor—September 2003 Randy Blume, the author who has done the things she writes about in this novel, gives everyone a deliciously privileged peek into secret places. Everything rings true—the heroine’s middle-class mother’s horrified response to her choice of profession, the tasteless jokes of her male co-workers, the whole polyester reality of what was once a glamorous enterprise. Crazy in the Cockpit is both funny and appalling in its revelations about life as a woman in a field that’s almost exclusively male—commercial aviation.

Pilot’s Guide to Flight Emergency Procedures Birch, N.H and Bramson, A.E. Doubleday & Company, Inc. 1973 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Pat York—July 2001 This book contains complete information on all the flight safety procedures of which every private pilot should be aware. Clearly illustrated and described, the procedures cover emergencies ranging from forced landings with or without power, engine failure during take-off, fire in the air, landing gear or brake failure, to problems such as rapidly changing weather conditions and radio failure which can easily develop into emergencies.

My God! It’s a Woman Bird, Nancy Harper Collins Publishers 2002 Softcover Donated by The Estate of Pamela O’Brien—September 2015 My God! It’s a Woman is the extraordinary story of Nancy Bird, one of Australia’s pioneer aviators.

The Sky’s The Limit Women Pioneers in Aviation Boase, Wendy Macmillan Publishing Co., Inc. 1979 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by The Estate of Pamela O’Brien—September 2015 A lively, anecdote—filled account of the careers of the world’s leading women flyers. The Sky’s The Limit takes a captivating look at an international group of women flyers who took on their male counterparts and successfully challenged the assumption that flying was ‘man’s work’.

Air To Air Bowen, Paul North Shore Press 1998 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Purchased by The Monterey Bay Chapter—January 2008 Air To Air is Paul’s photographic account of his exciting, adventurous career. His professional reputation is such that he commands top-of-the-market fees and is in continuous demand. This book has some of the most beautiful photographs you’ll ever see.

Silver Wings A History of the United States Air Force Boyne, Walter J. Simon & Schuster 1993 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Laura Barnett—August 2014 Silver Wings is a thoroughly refreshing, lively, and informative history of the United States Air Force. But Walter Boyne’s account is by no means history in the conventional sense. Rather than setting forth a traditional catalog of equipment, well-known campaigns, and famous pilots, Boyne chronicles the colorful inside story of the events and the men and women who shaped the Air Force into the most powerful military force in history.

Trophy For Eagles Boyne, Walter J. Crown Publishers 1989 Hard Cover
w/dust jacket

Donated by Laura Barnett—June 2003 Trophy For Eagles is a story of the pioneering men and women who devoted—and sacrificed—their lives to conquer the sky.

The Wild Blue Boyne, Walter J. & Thompson, Steven L. Crown Publishers

Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Laura Barnett—June 2002

Sweeping, filled with all the thrill and glamour of flight, The Wild Blue is a panoramic novel of the men, the women, and the machines that made the Air Force the elite and gutsy flying corps it is today.

Soaring above Setbacks The Autobiography of Janet Harmon Bragg—African American Aviator

Bragg/Kriz, Marjorie M. Smithsonian Institute Press 1996 Soft Cover

Donated by The Salinas Pilot's Association—June 2014 The first African American woman to earn a full commercial pilot's license, Janet Harmon Bragg led a life of multifaceted achievement. Not only a pioneering aviator but also a successful businesswoman, she owned and operated two nursing homes on Chicago's South Side for nearly three decades and traveled extensively in Africa. Written in the plainspoken style of a forthright woman at once proud of her accomplishments and committed to her community, Soaring above Setbacks provides unusual insight into both a black woman's struggles against dual discrimination and an important chapter in the history of flight.

Be A Better Pilot Bramson, Alan Arco Publishing, Inc. 1980 Hard Cover
w/dust jacket

Donated by Pat York—July 2001 Be a Better Pilot is a practical book, packed with information on how to improve your flying technique so as to become not just a competent but an expert pilot.

At The Controls Women in Aviation Briggs, Carole Lerner Publications
Company 1991

Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by The Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015 During World War II, women wanted to help the war effort. "Knit warm clothing for the soldiers," the men suggested. But many women had a different idea. More than 25,000 women sent applications to the Women Airforce Service Pilots program. They wanted to fly military airplanes.

Lost Star The Search for Amelia Earhart Brink, Randall W.W. Norton & Co

1993 Signed by author Soft Cover In this book, Brink deals only with the truth about Amelia Earhart's last flight, a truth withheld by our government because of a tenuous peace with Japan in the Pacific and concerns for the national security at home.... Those who knew the truth, and held it close, knew that Earhart and Noonan had survived. They believe it was their duty to hide the truth, and so they did....

United States Women in Aviation 1919-1929 Brooks-Pazmany, Kathleen Smithsonian Institution Press 1991 Softcover Donated by The Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015 At a time when many doubted that aviation was a proper sphere for women, female pilots made tremendous contributions to the emergence of aviation. Many of the women profiled in this book were active as pilots and barnstormers, while others as passengers braved the early days of air travel and promoted it as the way to go. Their stories are told in firsthand accounts and in photographs and materials from the National Air and Space Museum and private collections.

Jackie Cochran The Story of the Greatest Woman Pilot in Aviation History
Brinley, Mary Ann Bucknum Bantan Books 1988 Softcover Donated by Kay Harmon—November 2014 She never knew her parents, her real identity—or her limits. So she chose a name from a phonebook and made it legend. Jackie Cochran passed her first flight test without knowing how to write. By the time she died in 1980, she held more speed, altitude and distance records than any other pilot in history, male or female. Her record remains unbroken today.

Chains of Command Brown, Dale G.P. Putman's Sons 1993 Hard
Cover w/dust cover Donated by Laura Barnett—March 2003 With Chains of Command, Dale Brown delivers his most provocative and explosive novel to date: a gripping story about the future of the U.S. Air Force and new political and military realities—and a world still poised for war.

Day of the Cheetah Brown, Dale Donald I. Fine, Inc. 1989 Donated by Laura Barnett—June 2002 America's most advanced weapon—a top-secret fighter whose guidance systems can literally merge with the pilot's mind—a highly placed deep-cover KGB mole, unparalleled aerial combat scenes and a stunning appearance by the upgraded Old Dog itself—these are the elements that illuminate the author's explosive new high-flying adventure, Day of the Cheetah.

Fatal Terrain Brown, Dale G.P. Putnam's Sons 1997 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Laura Barnett—July 2003 The United States is up against the People's Republic of China and its powerful army to retaliate against China and it has just one more card to play—Aerial strike warfare expert Patrick McLanahan and genius aerospace engineer Jon Masters who have been working on plans to convert the Air Force's recently retired B-52 Stratofortress bomber fleet to the new EB-52 Megafortress “flying battleship” standard, designed to be a rapid-reaction global strike force.

Flight of the Old Dog Brown, Dale Berkley Books 1987
Paperback
Donated by Laura Barnett—November 2001 This book is the riveting story of America's race for technology, overtaken by our greatest enemy's mastery of "Star Wars." The U.S. arsenal of nuclear missiles has been neutralized. America's only hope: The Old Dog Zero One, a battle-scarred bomber fully renovated with modern hardware—and equipped with the deadliest state-of-the-art armaments known to man.....

Hammer Heads Brown, Dale Donald I. Fine, Inc. 1990 Hard Cover
w/dust jacket
Donated by Laura Barnett—March 2003 The South American drug cartel maintains the influx of dangerous narcotics into the U.S. at an all-time high; cooperation a month U.S. government agencies responsible for drug interdiction is at an all-time low. The situation calls for a radical solution. Enter Rear Admiral Ian Hardcastle. Some say he is loose cannon, others that he is precisely the bold, innovative tactician needed to fight an increasingly brazen and well-armed enemy.

Sky Masters Brown, Dale G.P. Putnam's Sons 1991 Hard Cover w/dust
cover
Donated by Laura Barnett—March 2003 When Lieutenant Colonel Patrick McLanahan is offered the chance to test-fly a new, high-tech B-2 bomber in strategic warfare training sorties, he jumps at the chance. After years of virtual exile at the Air Force's ultrasecret High Technology Aerospace Weapons Center, McLanahan now has the chance to reconfirm his flying skills not only to himself but to the brass at the Pentagon as well. Unbeknownst to McLanahan, those skills will come into crucial play as America is forced to react when an international dispute over a chain of oil-rich islands erupts into all-out war.

Storming Heaven Brown, Dale G.P. Putnam's Sons 1994 Hard Cover
w/dust cover
Donated by Donna Crane-Bailey America is under siege. Henri Cazaux, one of the world's most feared and deadly terrorists, is conducting a campaign of vindication and revenge against the United States. Cazaux, who was abused by American soldiers during an incarceration when he was a teenager in Europe, has waited years for this opportunity. Now, when the United States seems at its most vulnerable, he decides to strike. His method is ingenious in its simplicity: using large commercial aircraft purchased from an airline graveyard wholesaler, Cazaux will deploy bombs out of a modified rear-entry stair on unsuspecting critical targets.

Flying Carpet The SOUL of an Airplane Brown, Greg Aviation Supplies &
Academics, Inc. 2007
Softcover Donated by Joanne Nissen—January 2014 Buckle in with Greg Brown and head off to chase a solar eclipse or wrestle with ice on your wings or try to outwit troublesome mountain waves. Each chapter of Flying Carpet is a new ticket to extraordinary adventures that transform a pilot from novice to journeyman and, eventually, skilled aviator.

Spitfire Summer When Britain Stood Alone Brown, Malcolm Carlton Books 2000 Hard Cover w/jacket Donated by Pam Cabak Using powerful personal evidence in print for the first time, rich gleanings from the contemporary press and an impressive mix of posters, paintings and photographs, Malcolm Brown retells and re-evaluates the story of what has increasingly come to be known as the “Spitfire Summer” of 1940. The result is a gripping and moving account of the time when Britain stood alone.

Flying Know-How Buck, Robert N. Delacorte Press/Eleanor Friede 1975 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Pat York—July 2001 The author who’s flown everything from Cessna’s to sailplanes to 747’s shares a lifetime of experience after logging 30,000 hours without a scratch on the airplane.

North Star Over My Shoulder A Flying Life Buck, Robert N. Simon &
Schuster 2002 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Louise Minniear—October 2003

In North Star over My Shoulder, Bob Buck tells of a life spent up and over the clouds, and of the wonderful places and marvelous people who have been a part of that life. He captures the feel, taste, and smell of flying’s greatest era—how the people lived, what they did and felt, and what it was really like to be a part of the world as it grew smaller and smaller. He relates stories from his innumerable visits to Paris, the city he loves more than any other—echoing Gertrude Stein’s view that “America is my country, and Paris is my home town”—and from his trips to the Middle East, including flights to Israel before and after it became a state. A terrific storyteller and a fascinating man, Bob Buck has turned his well-lived life into a delightful memoir for anyone who remembers when there really was something special in the air.

Weather Flying Buck, Robert N. Macmillan Publishing Co., Inc. 1979 Hard Cover w/dust jacket. Donated by Pat York—July 2001 This edition includes:
new techniques for flying thunderstorms and turbulence, with full discussions of taking off and landing in bad weather; an expanded section on wind shear, including new illustrations; up-to-date data on how to judge the Big Weather Picture, using maps, forecasts, and other available aids; an enlarged section on forecasting weather at different altitudes; a final chapter on Teaching Yourself to Fly Weather, offering five steps to start from and think about, plus six points that should be rules for all pilots.

Into the Wind The Story of Max Conrad Buegeleisen, Sally Random House 1973

Hard Cover w/dust jacket 1 copy Donated by Donna Crane-Bailey July 2006

East to the Dawn Butler, Susan Addison-Wesley 1997 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by The Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015 The myths surrounding the life and legacy of Amelia Earhart run the gamut from the mundane to the ridiculous. Since her disappearance in 1937, people have questioned not only her actual death, but many aspects of her life, including the nature of the relationship with her husband, the flamboyant publishing magnate George Palmer Putnam, and even her very competency as a flier. Now, with East to the Dawn, Susan Butler offers the most comprehensive account to date of Earhart's extraordinary life—and finally sets the record straight.

Women with Wings Cadogan, Mary Academy Chicago Publishers 1993 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by The Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015 Women with Wings is a perceptive and highly entertaining celebration of the achievements of female flyers from eighteenth-century balloonists to today's astronauts.

Wingborn Caidin, Martin Paperback – Novel Kate Brandon was born and bred in an airplane, and had mastered everything that flew before she was twenty. Only blind male sexism kept her from the honor she deserved – the captain's chair in the cockpit. This is her story.

A Wasp Among Eagles A Woman Military Test Pilot in World War II Carl, Ann B Smithsonian Institution Press 1999 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Purchased by the Monterey Bay Chapter 99s—April 2002 A Wasp Among Eagles is the first-person story of how Baumgartner learned to fly, trained as a WASP, and became one of the earliest jet-age pioneers. In graceful, unassuming language she describes her post-college stints as a medical researcher, a dancer, and a writer for the New York Times—and her growing ambition to learn to fly.

Ryan Guidebook American Aircraft Series-Book 3 Carpenter, Dorr B. & Mayborn, Mitch Flying Enterprise Publications 1976 Soft Cover Donated by Louise Minniear—October 2003 Fifty years of Ryan airplanes (1925-1975) described in detail, including the classic S-T, the PT-22, Spirit of St. Louis, Bluebird, Navion and Broughams.

Trailblazers The Women of the Boeing Company Case, Betsy Published by Boeing 2014 Autographed by Betsy Case Hardback w/cover Donated by Joanne Nissen—April 2014 The women of Boeing are as diverse and inspiring as the history of the company itself. Attracted by the challenges of aviation and the magic of flight, the Trailblazers—female pioneers, aviators, engineers, and executives—worked hand-in-hand with thousands of other dedicated employees to help make Boeing what it is today. The strongest, best and best integrated aerospace company in the world.

My Enemy * My Friend A story of reconciliation from the Vietnam War Cherry, Brigadier General Dan Cherry, USAF, (Ret.) with Fran Erickson Aviation Heritage Park Inc. 2009 Hard Cover Anyone who has studied the air war over Vietnam in detail, or who may have caught the series Dogfights on the History Channel may recall an action on April 16, 1972, in which F-4D Phantom pilot Major E. Daniel Cherry engaged in a difficult, often frustrating four-minute pursuit of an elusive MiG-21 before finally blowing off its right wing with an AIM-7 Sparrow missile. For Dan Cherry, the most memorable postscript to the engagement was narrowly passing the enemy pilot, hanging beneath his parachute. Two things Cherry could not have foreseen at the time was that someday he would rediscover the Phantom in which he scored his victory, and that he would have it restored to its original 1972 markings as the first of a series of warplanes flown by Kentuckians to be displayed at the newly established Aviation Heritage Park in his hometown of Bowling Green. Even less likely would he have been able to foresee being invited in 2008 to appear on television in Ho Chi Minh City, Vietnam, where he met Nguyen Hong My, the North Vietnamese pilot he had shot down.

American Aviation An Illustrated History 2nd Edition Christy, Joe Tab Books 1994 Soft Cover Donated by Judy Spaulding—August 2007 Chronicles the early days of flight, to up-to-the-minute advances—and everything in between! Written for a wide audience—from students to historians to anyone with a curiosity about aviation—you'll find this book packed with fascinating and little-known facts about the world of flight.

Good Takeoffs and Good Landings 2nd Edition Christy, Joe Revised and updated by Ken George Tab Books 1991 Soft Cover Donated by Ann Walker—January 2006 To make consistently good takeoffs and landings, you have to work at it—whether you're a new student pilot or a 10,000-hour veteran. The infinite variables of weather, terrain, pilot experience, surface conditions, and machinery make it impossible to follow one systematic set of takeoff and landing procedures. But don't lose your confidence! In Good Takeoffs and Good Landings—2nd Edition, you'll find proven techniques and methods for safe and efficient takeoff and landing maneuvers in all kinds of situations.

The Aviator's Guide to Flight Planning Clausing, Donald J. Tab Books 1989 Hard Cover no dust jacket Donated by Pat York—July 2001 The author writes a

Donated by Laura A. Barnett—June 2009 This book describes Major Don Clawson's anecdotes—some serious, some hilarious—about life in the US Air Force as a pilot and instructor, and decide which is more complicated—politics or flying? Don Clawson grew up in North Hollywood, California. After service in the Army Air Forces during WWII, he returned to Parks College of Aeronautical Technology of St. Louis University and graduated in 1947 with a B.S. in Aviation Operations. Completed USAF pilot school in 1954. He flew B-25, B-47, B-52 aircraft. He left the USAF in 1965 for a short stint with United Air Lines. Returned to duty in 1967 and flew 122 combat missions in the EC-121 in Vietnam. After retiring in 1973 he spent 16 years with GTE Government Systems as an intelligence analyst. He lives in Morgan Hill, California with his wife Dolores and near his 15 grand kids and two great grandchildren.

Solo Pilot True flying adventures of one of the world's top pilots. Cobb, Jerrie Jerrie Cobb Foundation, Inc. 1997 Autographed by author Softcover Donated by The Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015 The story of a courageous woman with an extraordinary talent for flying, who chose not to exploit it, but rather to use it in serving others.

Woman Into Space: The Jerrie Cobb Story Cobb, Jerrie with Jane Rieker
Prentice-Hall, Inc. 1963 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by the Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015

In this book, Jerrie tells her own amazing story. She describes her adventures as an international ferry pilot...her near-escapes with death while logging in more than 10,000 flying hours ...her famous solo flights that set international records for speed, altitude and distance...and her role as America's #1 female astronaut candidate and special consultant to NASA on manned space flight.

Jackie Cochran An Autobiography Cochran, Jacqueline Bantam Books 1987

aviation. At the time of her death in 1980, she held more speed, altitude and distance records than any other pilot, male or female. And no one has ever matched her achievement.

Conquest of Lines and Symmetry Cole, Duane Ken Cook Transnational 1970 Soft Cover

Donated by Joanne Nissen—January 2009 Conquest of Lines and Symmetry is the most comprehensive book on the art of aerobatics published to date. Written for both the aerobatic student and aerobatic instructor, Duane covers the subject from basic through the most advanced maneuvers. As the perfect sequel to Roll Around A Point, it becomes a valuable asset to all who are interested in aerobatics whether for sport or to improve the proficiency of their every day flying.

Roll Around A Point Cole, Duane Ken Cook Company 1976 Soft Cover Donated by Joanne Nissen—January 2009 Roll Around A Point written in Mr. Cole's easy to read style, covers the subject of basic aerobatics from spins to inverted flight. Anecdotes of the author's own experiences are blended into the composition to eliminate the monotony of the ordinary textbook. Included is the basic Aresti system, the official international method of diagramming maneuvers.

Women Pilots of World War II Cole, Jean Hascall University of Utah Press 1992 Hard Cover (no dust jacket) Donated by The Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015 This unique oral history presents a rare look at the personal experiences of the Women Air Force Service Pilots (WASPs). These women pilots flew every type of aircraft, including heavy bombers, transports, and pursuits. Their experiences include crashes on takeoff, midair collisions, forced landings, parachute jumps from sabotaged aircraft, and many other exciting tales.

Flying Safely Collins, Richard L. Delacorte Press 1977 Hard Cover w/dust jacket

Donated by Robin Mara—December 2001 From over fifteen years of analyzing accident reports Dick Collins found that most of them cite the “pilot in command” as the probable cause. This is an oversimplification: most pilots do not fail on purpose. Most often they fail because they try to get more out of an airplane than it can give, or are operating beyond their own level of skill. These are unnecessary failures, unnecessary risks. “Flying Safely” provides a program that can be used by a pilot at any level of experience to build a natural checklist that must be part of the pilot’s portfolio.

Flying The Weather Map Collins, Richard L. Delacorte Press/Eleanor Friede 1979 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Pat York—July 2001 Forty-six actual flights show you how to interpret the weather map in terms of what you will experience in the sky.

Collins, Richard L. Macmillan Publishing Company 1988 Hard Cover w/dust jacket

Donated by Pat York—July 2001 The author reminds every pilot that there is much more to flying than just manual skills—and that is wherein lies the fun. Learning how to do it, and learning how to do it right, are definitely two entirely different matters.

101 Things To Do With Your Private License Cook, LeRoy Tab Books 1985

Soft Cover Donated by Pat York—July 2001. This well written, easy-to-read, pilot’s guide is crammed with vital pilot/aviation information. Including advice on almost every type of flying situation, it’s designed to show you how to make every flying hour a rewarding learning experience. You’ll discover vital information on purchasing your own plane, insurance considerations, test-hopping a new or rebuilt plane, what is or isn’t an accident, filing reports, and stress management.

Final Flight Coonts, Stephen Doubleday, a division of Bantam Doubleday Dell Publishing Group, Inc. 1988 Hard Cover /w dust jacket two copies Donated by Laura Barnett—November 2001 In Final Flight, Jake Grafton returns, this time as commander of an air wing on the supercarrier USS United States, on patrol in the tension-ridden present-day Mediterranean. After a particularly long cruise, the USS United States is in port in Naples and her crew is enjoying its first liberty in months. But something’s not right. Several crew members have not reported back from their leave and a beautiful American reporter who boarded the United States in Tangiers may not be a reporter, or even an American. When one of Jake’s men, in a hotel in Naples, witnesses an assassination attempt led by this woman, Grafton realizes the situation is much more serious than he suspected.

On The Wing Jessie Woods and the Flying Aces Air Circus Cooper, Ann Black Hawk Publishing 1993 First Edition – signed by Author & Jesse Woods Hard Cover w/dust jacket In On The Wing, Jessie's story is well-told and great fun. It provides a clear picture of an era and an even clearer one of a woman of strength and courage, wit and wisdom, a woman to know and to love through the best and worst of times.

Fly-Down of the WASP Crane, Mardo Pageant Press 1967 First Edition
Signed by Crane,

Hard Cover with dust jacket Donated by Dell Hinn—April 2001 This is a story of the life, and finally, the betrayal of a small group of women pilots during World War II. It is a story of their love of flight and their desire to serve under the Army Air Forces through the critical years of 1943-44. It is the story of a daring woman, Jo Bryant, beautiful, determined, and capable, and her experience as a WASP (Women's Airforce Service Pilot).

Ladies! Rev up Your Engines! Crane, Mardo D'Angelo Publishing 1970
Signed by Crane Soft Cover A novel about the girls in The Powder Puff Derby. The impact of the Powder Puff Derby was felt by thousands of persons in hundreds of cities over the years, and it all starts with the words to the pilots waiting on the flight line for race take-off – "Ladies! Rev up your engines!"

Airframe Crichton, Michael Published in the United States by Alfred A. Knopf, Inc., New York (fiction, based on real events) Three passengers are dead. Fifty-six are injured. The interior cabin virtually destroyed. But the pilot manages to land the plane...At a moment when the issue of safety and death in the skies is paramount in the public mind, a lethal mid-air disaster aboard a commercial twin-jet airliner bound from Hong Kong to Denver triggers a pressured and frantic investigation.

The Instrument Flight Training Manual Dogan, Peter Professional Instrument Courses, Inc. 1985 Soft Cover Donated by Pat York—July 2001 The Instrument Flight Training Manual is an excellent text to provide the instrument student with the foundation needed to obtain and safely use the FAA instrument rating. Its up-to-date and professional coverage of current instrument flight practices also make it a valuable, practical reference and “refresher” for the instrument rated pilot.

Achsa Autobiography of Achsa Donnels Donnels, Achsa Golden Eagle Press 1998 Signed Hard Cover w/dust jacket Achsa's life reads like a fascinating novel as she take the reader through her flying adventures, her marriages, and her love of sailing. With her charming first husband, Ross, she taught flying and owned two airlines and a number of historic aircraft. A true pioneer, she has seen aviation progress from its earliest days to the high-tech and essential presence it is today.

I Could Never Be So Lucky Again An Autobiography by General James H. “Jimmy” Doolittle with Carroll V. Glines Bantam Books 1991 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Born at the turn of the century, Doolittle’s life spans the golden age of aviation from the Wright brothers to the astronauts. Raised in the rough-and-tumble days of the gold rush in Nome, Alaska, Doolittle was a battler from the start. Though small in stature, he earned spending money as a teenage prizefighter. But it was always flying that was his first love. Attracted to the freedom and adventure of early aviation, he left college in 1917 to become an Army Air Service pilot. Unable to see combat duty in World War I, Doolittle publicized the fledgling Army Air Corps with his hair-raising stunt-flying escapades, entering—and often winning—every air show he could get into and setting air speed records that captured the imaginations of millions.

Cockpit Navigation Guide Downie, Don Tab Books 1978 Hard Cover no dust jacket Donated by Pat York—July 2001 This book demonstrates how to get from point A to point B by using different methods of navigation including, Pilotage, Dead Reckoning, and Radio Navigation.

Second To None The Story of Lloyd & Gladys O’Donnell and the 1929 Women’s Air Derby O’Donnell Doyle, Lorraine Lorraine O’Donnell Doyle 2000-2001 Soft Cover Autographed Purchased by The Monterey Bay Chapter—January 2008 In 1929 Gladys O’Donnell was the only licensed pilot in Long Beach, California. With just 40 hours of solo flying time she heedlessly entered the first Women’s Air derby ever held, and won second place. The following year she entered again and won first place. The story is about Gladys and her husband Lloyd, operator of his own flying school, and a dare-devil pilot whose “seat of the pants” air adventures were as outrageous as they were fascinating.

Undaunted Long-Distance Flyers in the Golden Age of Aviation Dunmore, Spencer McClelland & Stewart Ltd. 2004 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Joanne

Nissen—June 2016

When in 1904 the Wright brothers stayed aloft for more than five minutes, nobody paid them much attention. But over the next couple of decades, beginning with pioneer flyers like Blériot, Alcock and Brown, Quimby and Rogers, aviators and engineers began to push the limits of the possible, and their exploits caught the imagination of a public looking for sensation. In Undaunted Spencer Dunmore tells the stories of these dramatic and romantic characters who one after the other strove to capture the glory of achieving an historic “first.” A breathless public studied their every move, newspapers around the world sponsored long-distance races with dazzling cash prizes, and crowds lined the streets as the latest record-breaking heroes drove by.

Amelia Earhart The Fun of It Earhart, Amelia Academy Press Limited 1977
Soft Cover

Donated by Ann Walker—January 2006 In this breezy and enthusiastic book Earhart recalls her childhood and youth and her almost accidental discovery that she would rather fly airplanes than do anything else. She writes with an engaging blend of professionalism and love, describing the machines, the pioneering flights, and risks and challenges, in exuberant detail. She speaks directly to other young women, urging them to test themselves, to go as far and as high as they can—and beyond. Women, she believed, had a natural and important role in aviation; but among the many women fliers present in this book, Earhart alone is still remembered.

Last Flight Earhart, Amelia Orion Books 1988 Soft Cover Donated by the Estate of Pamela O’Brien—September 2015 Fifty years after its first publication, Amelia Earhart’s account of her ill-fated last flight remains one of the most moving and absorbing adventure stories of all time. Told with engaging humor, modesty, and charm, this long-out-of-print classic is an exhilarating tale of a true American pioneer’s triumph in conquering new horizons both in aviation and in women’s rights. She believed there was no reason women could not participate as equals in aviation, and since she alone did the flying, using the same planes as the men, there could be no belittling her achievements.

Zoot Suits and Parachutes Fagan, O. Vivian Soft Cover 1999 Purchased by

The Monterey Bay Chapter 99s—January 2002 This book is about the women flyers of the 40's and their trials and tribulations of that era. Whether to learn about their triumphs, to reap inspiration from their struggles, or just to be entertained with flying stories, this book will be “just right,” as the author would say.

The Barnstormer and The Lady Farney, Dennis Rockhill Books 2010
Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Joanne Nissen—April 2013 This is the story of Walter and Olive Ann Beech, the remarkable couple whose careers spanned virtually the entire history of American aviation. It is also the story of a marriage of opposites. Walter was a charming rascal, a hard-living barnstormer. Olive Ann was a shy small-town Kansas girl who hid that shyness behind an imperious manner and a backbone of steel.

Flying a Floatplane Second Edition Faure, Marin Tab Books 1990
Soft Cover
Donated by Pam O'Brien—October 2006 Flying the Floatplane has accelerated the training of thousands of pilots and flight students seeking the seaplane license and an exciting career in independent bush piloting. While not a substitute for a floatplane instructor, this popular guide provides you with an excellent preflight introduction to floatplane flight techniques, maintenance, and safety. Gliding to a landing on a lake Orriver may look easy to some, but author Marin Faure shows that dealing with waves, currents, tides, rocks, boats, and even fish, takes a lot of preflight knowledge and preparation.

Kelly Flinn Proud To Be My Life, The Air Force, The Controversy Flinn, Kelly
Random House 1997 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Joanne Nissen—July 2001 She is the first woman to pilot a B-52, a charismatic twenty-six-year-old from a proper Georgia family who has always distinguished herself—as a fifteen-year-old at U.S. Space Camp and as a cadet at the U.S. Air Force Academy. There she overcame considerable odds and earned a coveted position as a combat pilot. This is the story of Flinn's love affair with flying.....and the love affair that ended her trailblazing Air Force career.

Night Over Water Follett, Ken William Morrow and Company, Inc 1991 Hard Cover w/jacket
Donated by Joanne Nissen—November 2014 Ken Follett's first-class ticket to suspense is set in an era when flying was still a peril-fraught adventure. The Clipper's pilot still “hunted the wind” to conserve precious fuel, its navigators followed the night light of stars, and all lives hung on the captain's fateful choice at the point-of-no-return.

Only Follett can give you an experience like this—aboard the legendary Clipper on its lonely way across the Atlantic in a thrilling, ominous night over water.

Making Perfect Landings In Light Airplanes Fowler, Ron The Iowa State University Press 1984

Hard Cover Donated by Pat York—July 2001 The author’s purpose is very clear: to develop in pilots a keen sense of awareness in each of the three major areas of the landing procedure. He lists these as recognition of the landing situation and understanding of its true nature, knowledge of how to meet and weigh each task required against personal skill and limitation, and ability to evaluate the airplane’s capacity to meet challenge.

Mr. Piper and His Cubs Francis, Devon Iowa State University Press 1973
Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Donna Crane-Bailey November—2003

“The man who was to earn the sobriquet, ‘the Henry Ford of aviation,’ was both merchant and mystic,” writes biographer Devon Francis. “William Piper was an anachronism, the gambler and archconservative. He took risks, but they were calculated; he kept his options open.....He was a romantic and a missionary zealot in the world of small business. Near the half-century mark in age when he was inducted into aircraft manufacture, he had visions that puddle-jumper airplanes might-just might-one day become important.

The ABC’s of Safe Flying Attitude, Basics, Communication...a step-by-step guide to the foundations of pilot proficiency and air safety! Frazier, David A. Tab Books 1981 Soft Cover

Donated by Pat York—July 2001 An ideal book for licensed and student pilots, covering the essential fundamentals of flight and clearly underscoring the need to raise pilot competence levels. Clearly details and communicates the very roots of flying, and pointedly establishes that most often the difference between a safe airplane or a dangerous one depends more on pilot ability than on the relative merits of the aircraft itself.

The Wright Brothers How They Invented the Airplane Freedman, Russell

Freeman, Roger A
Cassell & Co. 2000 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Laura Barnett—
February 2016

Few books have had such an impact on aviation literature and the study of military history as this class of diligent research and authoritative writing. The hundreds of thousands who have already been entranced by its informative and entertaining text are already able more fully to understand the diversity of air action during World War Two: new readers of this eagerly-awaited re-issue will find themselves enjoying new perspectives on military aviation in general and on this fine air force in particular.

Thunderbolt: A documentary history of the Republic P-47 Freeman, Charles Charles Scribner's Sons, 1979 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Laura Barnett—November 2010 This book tells the technical and dramatic story of the Thunderbolt, explaining its development, tactical employment as an escort fighter, and its adaptation to the role in which it excelled—ground attack. In addition to the narrative history, the book includes details of service use by Allied air forces, accounts by pilots who flew this fighter in different theaters of war, and technical data on all Thunderbolt models. Illustrated with over 200 photographs, this book also features detailed plans of P-47s based on manufacturers' statistics and actual aircraft measurements.

Space for Women A History of Women with the Right Stuff Freni, Pamela
Seven Locks Press 2002
Softcover Donated by The Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015 Space for Women gives a fascinating account of a little known segment of space history that includes personal anecdotes from the women involved. It tells an important story of women's contribution to aviation and space.

The Immortalists: Charles Lindbergh, Dr. Alexis Carrel, and Their Daring Quest to Live Forever
Friedman, David M. HarperCollins 2007 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Joanne Nissen—September 2015 He was one of the most famous men of the twentieth century, the subject of best-selling biographies and a hit movie, as well as the inspiration for a dance step—the Lindy Hop—he himself was too shy to try. But for all the attention lavished on Charles Lindbergh, one story has remained untold until now: his macabre scientific collaboration with Dr. Alexis Carrel. Together this oddest of couples—one a brilliant surgeon turned social engineer, the other a failed dirt farmer turned hero of the skies—embarked on a secret quest to achieve immortality.

Midway: The Battle That Doomed Japan Fuchida, Mitsuo/Masatake Okumiya
Ballantine Books 1984 Soft Cover Donated by Joanne Nissen—November 2010

On June 4, 1942, Admiral Yamamoto launched his attack on Midway with the largest fleet yet assembled in the Pacific. His strike force included 350 ships and over 100,000 officers and men. His objective: to smash the U.S. aircraft carriers based at Midway and break the Navy's power in World War II. Now, for the first time, Japanese officers open the sealed archives to tell the authoritative, dramatic story of what really happened at Midway.

A Hostage to Fortune Gann, Ernest K. Alfred A. Knopf 1978 First Edition

Hard Cover w/dust jacket Ernest Gann's own account of his incredibly full and fascinating life, a life with more than enough adventure – risks taken and gambles won, exotic journeys, ironic tricks of fate, the struggle of man (and man's machines) against nature – to match anything in this master storyteller's marvelous and best-selling novels.

Band of Brothers Gann, Ernest K. Simon and Schuster 1973 Hard Cover w/ dust jacket

Donated by Donna Crane-Bailey—November 2003 Band of Brothers is a novel that brilliantly captures excitement and exhilaration as it tells a story of supreme adventure and of that chivalrous camaraderie among men that can exist only in the face of danger.

Fate Is The Hunter Gann, Ernest K. Simon & Schuster, Inc. 1961 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Geneva Cranford—June 2002 Out of his own experience the world-renowned author of such novels as The High and the Mighty and Twilight for the Gods narrates a series of events that illustrate his theme. All of them happen to take place in the air, or just before or after a flight. They might as well have happened, however, in the desert, on the sea or in a jungle; on a farm, on a battlefield—or in a home or a business office. One can never know when, where or how fate will strike. Yet sooner or later it does; and even when it misses its mark it brings terror, fear or fright (they are not the same) to the hearts of men. It is at such times that true courage and cowardice can reveal themselves most nakedly and in the most unforeseen ways.

In The Company Of Eagles Gann, Ernest K. Simon & Shuster, Inc. 1966 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Donna Crane-Bailey—November 2003 The time is 1917. It is the eve of an appalling disaster—as General Nivelles and his poilus, desperate to expel the invader from their homeland, are about to hurl themselves at the impregnable Hindenburg line.

Island In The Sky Gann, Ernest K. Popular Library Edition ?date Soft Cover Donated by Joanne Nissen—July 2006 The saga of a man named Dooley and an airplane called Corsair—and the battle they fought together against staggering odds. It is a story of monumental suspense and adventure that has earned the author a high place among the master story tellers of our time.

The Aviator Gann, Ernest K. Arbor House Publishing Company 1981 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Joanne Nissen—July 2006 The Rocky Mountains, in the year 1928: It is the pioneering days of the U. S. airmail service. A downed pilot and his only passenger, a girl brave and wondrously perceptive beyond her eleven years, struggle to survive, their fear giving way to a bond of caring, great enough to surmount the most terrible odds.

Chapter—September 2009*
CarolAnn Garratt was already a member of Eathrounders when she and Carol Foy took off From Orlando International Airport on December 2, 2008. Building on the experience of her solo 2003 around-the-world trip to raise awareness for ALS, Garratt was determined to do even more and break a world record while she was at it. After 18 months of detailed planning, the two women were on their way. The tower wished them well. "See you in eight days!" they replied.

Flying in Congested Airspace: A Private Pilot's Guide Garrison, Kevin Tab
Books 1989
Hard Cover with dust jacket Donated by Ann Walker—January 2006 The airways are crowded—and it's getting worse. If you want to continue flying in today's increasingly unfriendly skies, you need the practical advice of airline pilot Kevin Garrison found in Flying in Congested Airspace. If you're like most pilots, you have a healthy respect for the crowded airspace that surrounds any busy airport. But you don't have to be intimidated by controlled airspace—you can land just as safely as O'Hare as you can at your home field, with the help of this timely book.

Cross-Country Flying Garrison, Paul Tab Books 1980 Hard Cover no dust jacket
Donated by Pat York—July 2001 Flying cross-country involves being able to read a variety of charts, to navigate by means of pilotage or radio aids or both, to understand weather and to correctly interpret weather reports and forecasts. It requires that the pilot be able to interpret the information provided by his engine, air-date, and navigation instruments, and to translate this information into the correct action at the right time.

Flying VFR in Marginal Weather Garrison, Paul Tab Books 1987 Hard Cover no dust jacket Donated by Pat York—July 2001 This book is not intended to encourage pilots to fly into marginal weather conditions or to take silly chances of any kind. Its purpose, rather, is to demonstrate how such situations can be dealt with when a pilot has inadvertently come face to face with conditions which are beyond the limits of his experience or capabilities or go beyond the capabilities of the aircraft involved.

Practical Area Navigation Garrison, Paul Tab Books 1980 Soft Cover Donated by Pat York—July 2001 A clear, detailed discussion of air Navigation Systems—what they are, how they work, and how you can use them!

Air-Crazy Fascinating stories of Canadian women in the air Gillan Muir, Elizabeth Another Chapter Publishing 2015 Softcover Donated by Joanne Nissen—September 2016 Signed by author When airplanes were first invented over 100 years ago, they were flown by men. Women weren't even supposed to be passengers. But many "air-crazy" women wanted to fly, and eventually they did. Author and historian Elizabeth Gillan Muir tells stories about some of these courageous and determined women across Canada who contributed so much to Canadian aviation history.

Mountain Flying 1st Edition Geeting, Doug and Woerner, Steve Tab Books 1988 Soft Cover Donated by Ann Walker—January 2006 As a licensed, active pilot you can expect to encounter mountains at some point in your flying career. This book can help to minimize the risks of mountain flying. The authors examine mountain flying in terms of the pilot, the airplane, weather and topography, mechanical performance capabilities, and techniques.

Enemy Coast Ahead Gibson, Guy Bantam Books 1979 Softcover Much has been written about the Royal Air Force, but this book is unique, both for its vivid portrayal of the bomber pilots on and off duty, and for its unsurpassed story of Bomber Command, from its earliest days to the great raids which eventually devastated Germany.

Canadian Women in the Sky 100 Years of Flight Gillan Muir, Elizabeth Dundurn Toronto 2015 Softcover Signed by author Donated Joanne Nissen—September 2016 Women in Canada, from Newfoundland to British Columbia, struggled to win a place in the world of air travel, first as passengers, then as flight attendants and pilots, and finally, as astronauts. Anecdotes, sometimes humorous and always amazing, trace these women's challenges and successes, their slow march over one hundred years from scandal to acceptance, whether in Second World War skies, in hostile northern bush country, or even beyond Earth's atmosphere. From the time the first woman climbed on board a flying machine as a passenger to the moment a Canadian female astronaut visited the International Space Station, this is an account of how the sky-blue glass ceiling eventually cracked, allowing passionate and determined “air-crazy” women the opportunity to fly.

The Doolittle Raid Glines, Carroll V. Schiffer Publishing, Ltd. 1991

Hardcover w/dust jacket

Donated by Kay Harmon—April 2015 The catastrophe at Pearl Harbor was followed by five months of further defeats as America surrendered one island fortress after another. In the atmosphere of unrelieved gloom that followed, Roosevelt and his military leaders decided to boost American morale by undertaking a daring offensive action against the Japanese home islands.

Roscoe Turner Aviation's Master Showman Glines, Carroll V. Smithsonian Institution 1995

Soft Cover The Golden Age of Aviation is generally considered to be the 1920s and early 1930s, when men and women risked their lives for profit and glory by wing walking, racing, setting records, and pushing aircraft performance and their individual abilities to the limits. No one represented this era more memorably than Roscoe Turner. As he often said, “I could never see any other reason for an airplane than to go fast.”

Flying Out Of Danger A Pilot's Guide to Safety Goldstein, Avram Airguide Publications, Inc. 1984 Soft Cover Donated by Pat York—July 2001 This book is directed toward the general aviation pilot. Its approach is through the analyses of the aviation accident reports of the NTSB. Its purpose is to enable all pilots to learn about the errors that other pilots make and thus allow all of us to avoid making those errors ourselves. Unless we are willing to learn from aviation's accidents, all those tragic deaths and injuries will really have been in vain.

The Right Seat Goldstein CFI, CFII, Avram Avram Goldstein, Stanford CA Soft Cover Donated by Sarah Chauvet June—2001 An introduction to flying

Winged Victory Grey, Elizabeth Houghton Mifflin Company Boston 1966 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by The Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015 On a still clear morning in May, 1930, an unknown young woman of twenty-seven guided her Tiger Moth biplane along the runway of an English airport and lifted it over the distant treetops into the morning sky, watched by a small handful of loyal supporters. As she flew towards the Channel, people were setting out to work, unaware that history was being made in the sky above their heads. Nineteen and a half days later, after being battered by wind and rain in her open cockpit, Amy Johnson touched down in Australia to a tumultuous reception, and found herself the heroine of the world. She had not flown alone; her great adventure had been followed minute by minute on countless wireless sets by a vast company of unseen strangers.

Business Flying The profitable use of personal aircraft Hansen, Paul E. McGraw-Hill, Inc. 1982
Hard cover w/ dust jacket Written by an experienced pilot and businessman, this guide cuts through the "flying mystique" and deals with the airplane as a meaningful profitable business tool--not an expensive executive "perk." It provides a businesslike survey of the advantages as well as the drawbacks of owning and operating an airplane in a small business.

West By 180 A Journey into some of the most rugged and remote airstrips in America
Harden, Captain Harry B. Trafford Publishing 2005 Softcover Donated by Joanne Nissen—April 2013 After a highly successful 35-year flying career, Captain

Harry B. Harden sets off for the most personally rewarding flight of his life. This is the account of his flying adventure into some of the most rugged and remote airstrips in America. Join Captain Harden as he pilots his 1956 Cessna 180 over the Rocky Mountains, soars above the lush forests of the Pacific Northwest, and camps near streams where at dusk, the fish still jump.

Wings Over Idaho An Aviation History Hart, Arthur A. Historic Books, Inc. 1991 Soft Cover Donated by Joanne Nissen—September 2001 This book began as a modest overview of the history of aviation in Boise, Idaho. It grew, inevitably it seemed, into a history of aviation embracing the whole state. This was due, in part, to the revolution created by flight itself—the wonder that made Idaho’s thousands of square miles of mountains and wilderness passable by plane in hours rather than weeks. Not only could pioneer pilots fly into towns all over the state, but national and international aviation figures came to Idaho as well.

Quest for Flight John J. Montgomery and the Dawn of Aviation in the West Harwood, Craig S./Gary B. Fogel University of Oklahoma Press: Norman 2012 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Purchased for the library—May 2013 Local author Craig Harwood an engineering geologist, and Gary Fogel teamed up to write about Harwood’s great-great uncle who engineered and tested an “aeroplane” that soared as high as 3,000 feet above Aptos California in 1905.

Letters Home: 1944-1945 Women Airforce Service Pilots Haydu, Bernice “Bee” Falk Bernice Haydu 2008 Soft Cover Autographed In February of 1944 Bernice Falk was accepted into the Women Airforce Service Pilots of World War II (WASP). Her mother saved the letters Bee wrote home describing her training and tour of active duty. They tell a fascinating story of her military experiences and some of the problems she had to overcome in order to become and remain a professional pilot. She explains how aviation and piloting continued to be an important part of her life while rearing a family who all learned to love flying. She also chronicles the WASP struggle to be recognized as veterans during her term as president of their organization.

Amelia Earhart’s Daughters Haynsworth, Leslie & Toomey, David Harper Collin’s 2000 Hardcover w/jacket donated by Mona Kendrick—November 2014 The wild and glorious story of American women aviators from World War II to the dawn of the space age.

Women of Waco Heins, Andy WACO Historical Society Inc. 2008 Softcover Donated by Joanne Nissen—September 2016 The twenty-four women presented in this booklet all had one thing in common besides flying Waco aircraft; courage and determination to succeed in what was known as a man’s world. Women who flew in the 1920’s and 1930’s had to possess a special quality unlike that of other women of their generation. Often times, men would revolt against the women fliers by not letting them fly high-powered or high speed aircraft because they were deemed “more than a woman can handle". They were not allowed to participate in mixed-sex air races yet the women featured within set world records for distance, speed, altitude, and won numerous races. They revolted against the system and did what they liked best.....flying airplanes. Susan Theodorelos—Waco Pilot, Waco RNF NC663Y

True Valor Uncommon Heroes Henderson, Dee Mulmomah Publishers, Inc. 2002 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Purchased by The Monterey Bay Chapter 99s—March 2008 Lieutenant Grace Yates, the perfect combination of skill and grace under pressure, has made a career of defending God an country. And she's one of the first women to fly fighter jets on dangerous missions over Iraq for the Navy. Air Force Major Bruce Stanton spends his time as a pararescueman, aiding pilots who are brought down behind enemy lines. He's also smart, handsome and interested in Grace. With jobs that keep them apart, he and Grace get to know each other—and fall in love—through their letters. They learn to lean on God and each other, as tensions mount overseas. Then a pilot is reported missing behind enemy lines and it turns out to be Grace. Bruce steels himself for what is ahead. His only goal—to get her out alive.....

The Warbirds Herman, Richard Jr. Donald I. Fine, Inc. 1989 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Laura Barnett—June 2002 This is a dramatization of aerial combat and written by someone who was there. There are nail-biting dogfights that show the nuts and bolts of tactical flying, the sacrifices made, and the personalities that make a fighting machine work in combat. The author combines a mastery of technical detail with an instinct for vivid characterization to create a novel filled with the burning smell of ambitions, war and the men—and women—who live and die doing their job for their country.

Anne Morrow Lindbergh A Gift for Life Herrmann, Dorothy Penguin Books 1993 Soft Cover Donated by Ann Walker—January 2006 A pioneer aviatrix; a devoted wife and mother; a beloved writer, Anne Morrow Lindbergh continues to be one of the most inspirational women of the twentieth century. In her compelling biography, Dorothy Herrmann explores this remarkable woman's career, her achievements and tragedies. From her privileged childhood and her storybook marriage, to the kidnap and murder of her first child and a decade-long political ostracism, and finally to her triumph as a celebrated writer, this account depicts Anne Morrow Lindbergh's struggle to find her true identity amidst the pressures of family and fame. This first full-scale biography is an intelligent and complex portrait of a gifted woman, as well as a significant new chapter in the history of twentieth-century women.

Skystars: The History of Women in Aviation Hodgman, Ann & Djabbaroff, Rudy
McClelland & Stewart, Ltd. 1981 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by the Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015 This book follows the history of women flyers from the early days of a few spirited individuals, telling of some of their crazy stunts as well as their determination and purpose, until today, when women in the air have to be taken seriously. It is illustrated with many photographs of famous women pilots and their airplanes, showing changes in aircraft and flying gear as well as in the women who flew.

The Tale of Tango Hohmann, Paul E. Xlibris LLC 2014 Softcover (children's book)

Far, far away, in a Midwestern town in late winter, a wonderful event was happening in a small factory. As the cold wind blew across the flat, open land, a brand-new airplane named Tango was being fitted with its identification number plate. This was a big event for the little airplane because it was the final step before it was allowed to fly. This particular plane's identification number, or ID for short, was 1228, its date of manufacture. The little plane was checked, inspected, and labeled as Airworthy. He was ready to take to the skies.

Ladybirds II Holden, Henry M & Griffith, Captain Lori Black Hawk Publishing Company First Edition 1993 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Alice Talnack—April 2015 Over the past 90 years women have played a significant role in the development of aviation in America. But, women did not first enter aviation a mere 90 years ago. They were contributing from the dawn of flight. Just seven months after the first man flew, the first woman went aloft. And five months before the Wright brothers flew their heavier-than-air machine, a woman soloed in a powered aircraft.

Ladybirds-The Continuing Story of American Women in Aviation provides a glimpse at the past, and honors the women of yesteryear. It also celebrates the achievements of today's women and preserves the aviation sector of women's history.

Calculated Risk The Extraordinary Life of Jimmy Doolittle—Aviation Pioneer and World War II Hero

A Memoir by Jonna Doolittle Hoppes Santa Monica Press 2005 Hard Cover w/dust jacket

Donated by Joanne Nissen—January 2006 Calculated Risk is a firsthand account written by granddaughter Jonna Doolittle Hoppes that brings readers inside the public and private world of Jimmy Doolittle and his family and sheds light on the drives and motivation of one of America's greatest heroes. The book also features many never-before-seen photographs from the Doolittle Library archives.

Forever Flying An Autobiography by R. A. "Bob" Hoover Hoover, R. A. "Bob" w/Mark Shaw

Pocket Books 1996 Hard Cover w/dust jacket and autographed

Donated by Louise Minniear—October 2003 Barnstormer, World War II fighter, test pilot, aerobatic genius—Bob Hoover is a living aviation legend, the man General James "Jimmy" Doolittle called "the greatest stick and rudder pilot who ever lived." Hoover's career spans the history of American aviation, and now he tells his amazing story with all the flat-out honesty and gusto that have made his life an extraordinary adventure.

Wilbur and Orville A Biography of the Wright Brothers Howard, Fred Alfred A. Knopf 1987

First Edition - US Hard Cover w/dust jacket Among the many books that have been written about the two bicycle mechanics from Ohio who stunned the world by inventing powered flight, Wilbur and Orville is, uniquely, a complete biography. It deals not only with the Wright brothers' epochal achievement at Kitty Hawk in 1903 but also, in detail, with the events before and after.

As The Pro Flies... flying expertly, in a professional manner Hoyt, John R. McGraw-Hill 1959

Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Geneva Cranford—March 2002 "Flying isn't difficult,” says John R. Hoyt, “it merely requires better techniques than those used in other mechanical pursuits.” In this authoritative book designed for novice and experienced pilot alike, Mr. Hoyt, former Navy flier and Civil Aeronautics Administration safety inspector, teaches you these techniques. He explains not only what you need to know about the mechanics of modern flying but also—and this is equally important—how to acquire the ability to think quickly and plan ahead. This is the psychological element of aviation that the author calls “Quality X,” and he insists that a pilot must have it in all aspects of flying—from familiarizing himself with a new plane to making difficult instrument landings.

Leaving Earth A Novel Humphreys, Helen Metropolitan Books 1997 Hard Cover w/dust jacket

Purchased by The Chapter—February 2008 With the sensuous, shimmering language of an accomplished poet, Helen Humphreys has drawn two unforgettable heroines in a grim world hungry for feats of bravery. Tracing the inevitable curve of day into night and the subtle shifts of women’s lives, Leaving Earth interweaves the forces of history and progress, love and betrayal, cowardice and courage.

Mentor Inbound The Authorized Biography of Fred J. Ascani, Major General, USAF Retired Holder of the 1951 World Speed Record Hutchinson, Sheryl L. LtCol, USAF Retired Authorhouse 2009

Softcover Donated by Joanne Nissen—April 2011 Sheryl worked outside of maintenance for two years as the Air Combat Command Speechwriter from 1997 until 1999. It was during her following assignment, while she commanded the now deactivated 450th Test Squadron, “Size Does Matter,” at Edwards AFB, California, that she met the subject of her book, MGen Fred Ascani.

Flights of Passage Reflections of a World War II Aviator Hynes, Samuel Naval Institute Press 1988

Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Robin Mara—December 2001 In World War II Sam Hynes was a young Marine bomber pilot. He flew more than a hundred missions against the Japanese at Okinawa and Ulithi. But now, some forty years after those dramatic combat experiences, it is not the mechanics of flying and war-making that remain uppermost in this pilot’s memory. What Hynes remembers best and describes so eloquently in this memoir are the sensations he experienced in his rites of passage from untrained cadet to war-weary aviator, from youthful innocence to manhood.

The Pilot’s Air Traffic Control Handbook Illman, Paul E. Tab Books 1989

Hard Cover no jacket Donated by Pat York—July 2001 The author’s reason for writing this book is that new hardware may increase safety and enhance aircraft traffic flow, but another constant remains—the human element. Modern technology has been able to automate a multitude of mechanical operations, but it has not yet found a substitute for the mind and judgment of man. People are still piloting airplanes, and people on the ground are still directing and communicating with those well-being they are guarding.

The Pilot's Radio Communications Handbook 4th Edition Illman, Paul E. 1994

The Plane that changed the World A biography of the DC-3 Ingells, Douglas Aero Publishers 1966

Hard Cover w/dust jacket The Plane that changed the World is more than a story of a machine with wings. It is a story of men with vision, of engineers and scientists; men who worked with their hands on the production line, tens of thousands of them; men of Wall Street who had the faith to back a struggling, infant air transport industry; men born to the sky who loved to fly; of small towns and big cities linked together in the greatest air transport system the world has ever known; the story of a revolution in transportation that unshackled the bonds of earthlings and put them on the stairway to the stars.

To Rule The Night The Discovery Voyage of Astronaut Jim Irwin Irwin, Jim
Holman Bible Publishers Soft Cover This book is the thrilling account of one of the greatest adventures of all time—man's journey to the moon. More significantly, it is also the inspiring story of one man's journey to faith in the God of the Universe. Astronaut Jim Irwin has a unique and challenging story to tell.

AIRWAR/Terror from the Sky/Tragic Victories#1 Jablonski, Edward Doubleday & Company Inc. 1971 Hardcover w/dust jacket Donated by Laura Barnett—June 2002
Terror From The Sky is an account of the revolutionary tactics that aviation introduced in the early years of the war: the blitzkrieg with which Hitler's Stukas defeated most of Europe, and the terror-bombing with which the Luftwaffe attempted to beat Britain into submission. Yet it is also made up of fascinating personal stories of individual airmen and their war: the German pilots in the blitz, and R.A.F. fliers who held them off with a handful of Spitfires and Hurricanes until the balance of victory tipped towards the allies.

AIRWAR/Outraged Skies/Wings of Fire#2 Jablonski, Edward Doubleday & Company, Inc. 1971 Hardcover w/dust jacket Donated by Laura Barnett—June

2002 It is a fascinating account of the desperate improvisation of men and material through which America struggled to bring the conflict to the Japanese island strongholds. Called “Operation Shoestring” by those who fought it, it was an unorthodox war of hit-and-run dogfights and, for a time, meager bombing raids. Recreated here, it is filled with the heroic exploit of General Kenny's fledgling Fifth Air Force and the Naval and Marine pilots of Admiral Halsey's carriers in the Marianas “Turkey Shoot” and the skies over Saipan, New Guinea, Rabaul, the Dutch East Indies, Dan other sections of the South Pacific.

Double Strike The Epic Air Raids on Regensburg/Schweinfurt Jablonski, Edward Doubleday 1974 Donated by Donna Crane-Bailey—November 2003
On paper, Mission 84 of the Eighth Air Force was unique two pronged attack on the important German manufacturing cities of Regensburg and Schweinfurt, a brilliant, innovative master stroke. Once airborne on August 17, 1943, however, it became one of the costliest and bloodiest air battles of World War II.

Atlantic Fever Lindbergh, His Competitors, and the Race to Cross the Atlantic Jackson, Joe Farrar, Straus and Giroux 2012 Hardcover For five weeks—from April 14 to May 21, 1927—the world held its breath while fourteen aviators took to the air to capture the $25,000 prize that Raymond Orteig offered to the first man to cross the Atlantic Ocean without stopping. Joe Jackson's Atlantic Fever is about this race, a milestone in American history whose story has never been fully told.

Takeoffs and Touchdowns My Sixty Years of Flying Jacob, Fred E. A.S. Barnes & Company, Inc. 1981 Hardcover w/dust jacket—Autographed Donated by Robin Mara—December 2001 An exciting and informative chronicle of six decades of unforgettable flights in all kinds of aircraft, highlighting one remarkable pilot's colorful experiences, close calls, and close encounters with many fascinating and famous people.

Flying on the Gages A Book About Instrument Flying Jacobson, Brian M. Odyssey Aviation Publications 1996 Soft cover Donated by Pat York—October 2002

Brian M. Jacobson is a 12,000 hour corporate pilot who has flown all types of general aviation aircraft during his 26 years in aviation. He and his wife, Virginia, own a 1975 Piper Arrow which they use to travel across the United States. He is a contributing editor to Aviation Safety, IFR Refresher, a contributor to Plane & Pilot, and can be heard on Belvoir Publication's Pilot's Audio Update.

Teacher Wore a Parachute James, Joe A.S. Barnes and Co., Inc. 1967 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Robin Mara—December 2001 The legends and the lore of the days when cadets in the flying schools of World War II flew the aircraft known as the “Yellow Peril” is now told by Joe James, who was himself a World War II flight instructor and who has logged almost 4,000 flying hours, many of them in the “Yellow Peril.” The lighter moments of those tense and trying times are relived by a man who was there, and who shared with hundreds of cadets the days spent in the strange-looking crate that either made them or broke them. With humor and nostalgia, Joe James recalls those gone forever days of the open cockpit, the goggles, and the flapping white scarf trailing in the wind.

Heroes Without Legacy American Airwomen, 1912-1944 Jaros, Dean
University Press of Colorado 1993 Hardcover w/jacket Aside from Amelia Earhart, America’s earliest airwomen and their achievements remain largely unknown to the public. While enjoying widespread media attention in the twenties, thirties, and forties, America’s female pilots lapsed into obscurity following World War II, denying current generations of women a promising cadre of role models. This book pays tribute to these spectacular pioneers: Katherine Stinson, Louise Thaden, World War II’s Women Airforce Pilots, and many others.

The Flying Nun And The Women of The West Jensen, Sister Anne Mare Random House Australia 1998 Soft Cover Donated by Joanne Nissen—July 2001 A baseball cap, riding boots and a Cessna aeroplane are not normally part of the image that comes to mind when we think of a nun—but then Sister Anne Maree Jensen’s “Aerial Ministry” is not a conventional calling either. This is not the story of Sister Anne Maree alone. It is also the story of the many women to whom her life and work are devoted. With humour, fatalism and hope, these women of the west tell of their own experiences: happiness, tragedy, their solitude and the heroism that is everyday life but also the sense of communion and wonder which the bush never ceases to awake in them.

Tales of Flying Pacemaker True Adventures Jerrome, Edward G. 1970 Hard

Cover w/o jacket Donated by Pam Cabak—October 2003 An elementary school library book about true flying stories.

The Powder Puff Derby of 1929 The True Story of the First Women's Cross Country Air Race

Jessen, Gene Nora Sourcebooks, Inc. 2002 Soft Cover Donated by Pam O'Brien—May 2002

In 1929, nineteen women set out from Santa Monica, California, in flimsy, propeller-driven planes, with a mission—to be the first to cover the cross-country course to Cleveland, Ohio. Dubbed “The Powder Puff Derby” by humorist Will Rogers, the competition was honest, aggressive and dangerous. The Powder Puff Derby of 1929 tells the thrilling story of the first major female airplane race. Despite countless crashes, sexist critics and one horrendous fatality, the racers captivated the nation and pioneered a new future and respect for female aviators.

Kelly More Than My Share of It All Johnson, L. “Kelly” with Maggie Smith Soft Cover Smithsonian Books 1989 “Kelly” Johnson led the design of such important American aircraft as the P-38 and the Constellation, but will be remembered more for the U-2 and SR-71 ‘spy’ planes. His leadership of the Lockheed ‘Skunk Works’ made him a legendary figure in American aerospace management. This is his autobiography; fast paced, very readable, and technically interesting. It covers a fifty-year span of American aviation without being a history book...What makes this book so valuable is Mr. Johnson’s exposition of the mind-set to find the simplest, least expensive fix to each technological problem....Recommended for all harried technologists and defense planners, it will encourage one’s faith that a better way is possible.”

Bird Watcher Johnson, Marjorie Soft Cover Infinity Publishing 2007 Autographed by author Donated Joanne Nissen—February 2014 Who is the bird watcher and why does he steal airplanes? A terrorist, or is he? When Jerry Christensen’s Cessna disappears from its tie-down at Palo Alto Airport—a small white airplane with a thousand clones and a hundred places to hide—Air Traffic Control can’t help, and the FBI isn’t interested. Jerry, a schoolteacher, is unsuited to pursue a criminal but determines to catch the thief himself. He acts on hunches and makes outrageous plans—his imagination and his background as a pilot his only weapons against serial aircraft thefts and a conspiracy against Hoover Dam. Will Jerry stop the thief in time?

Cheating Death Amazing Survival Stories from Alaska Kaniut, Larry Soft Cover Epicenter Press 1994 Donated by Judy Spaulding—August 2007 Alaska’s best-known storyteller offers a chilling collection of survival stories from pilots, hikers, hunters, climbers, boaters, and fishermen who confront their mortality—and live to tell about it!

No Easy Days The Incredible Drama of Naval Aviation Keeney, Douglas & Butler, William

Butler+Keeney+Farmer 1995 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Judy Spaulding—August 2007

Welcome to the world of naval aviation, the most demanding flight environment in the world. This book is a pictorial presentation of mishaps in carrier flight operations. It is the most complete visual record of the numerous, fascinating ways flights can go wrong. Further, it is a rare photo collection of the hard-earned lessons of naval aviation, and a tribute to fifty years of pilots and crews who have lived with this risky occupation, and have found out first-hand that in carrier operations there are no easy days.

Those Wonderful Women In Their Flying Machines The Unknown Heroines Of World War II

VanWagenen Keil, Sally Four Directions Press 1990 Hardcover Donated by Robin Mara—December 2001 From 1942 to 1944, almost two thousand women pilots left their civilian lives as students, movie stuntwomen, secretaries, blackjack dealers, teachers and wives with husbands overseas to converge on Avenger Field, Sweetwater, Texas. There at the only all-female cadet air base in history they slipped into ill-fitting men's GI flying suits and marched into the "Army Way" of life. Six months later, the Women's Airforce Service Pilots (WASP) were sent out to fly every airplane in America's air arsenal, from the colossal B-29 Superfortress to the lightning-fast P-51 Mustang fighter. The author tells the romantic story of America's entry into the Air Age.

Aviators In Early Hollywood Kelly, Shawna Arcadia Publishing 2008
Softcover

Donated by Joanne Nissen—October 15, 2014 Hollywood's leading aviators were heroic knights of the sky on the screen as well as in real life. These leading aviators performed aerial stunt sequences and acted, plus some wrote and directed motion pictures. Directing giant Cecil B. DeMille was so enthralled with aviation that he owned three airfields. Charlie Chaplin's family airfield also doubled as a motion-picture set.

Redefining Airmanship Kern, Tony McGraw-Hill 1997 Hardcover w/dust cover Donated by Laura A. Barnett—October 2009 Redefining Airmanship gives you a holistic model of good airmanship and shows you how to use that model to measure and improve your performance. The Happy Bottom Riding Club The life and times of Pancho Barnes Kessler, Lauren Random House 2000 Hard Cover w/jacket Pancho Barnes was a California heiress who inherited a love of flying from her grandfather, a pioneer balloonist in the Civil War. She was a force of nature, a woman who lived a big, messy, colorful, unconventional life.

Flight of the Gin Fizz Midlife at 4,500 Feet Kisor, Henry BasicBooks 1997 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by the Salinas Pilot's Association—June 2014 Henry Kisor didn't realize what he was getting himself into when a friend invited him aboard his small plane one afternoon, but as the engine revved and the craft took flight, he found himself exhilarated as never before. Fifty-three years old, Kisor had looked in the mirror and saw staring back "a man who was short, fat, bald, bespectacled, and deaf." He needed to reclaim his zest for life, and he found the answer in learning how to fly.

Apollo 8 The Thrilling Story of the First Mission to the Moon Kluger, Jeffrey Henry Holt and Company 2017 Hardcover w/dust jacket Donated by Joanne Nissen—August 2017

Amelia Earhart Lives A Trip Through Intrigue to Find America's First lady of Mystery Klaas, Joe and Joseph Gervais McGraw-Hill Book Company 1970 Hardcover w/dust jacket Signed First Edition Donated by Geneva Cranford—March 2002 This book is about the search into the disappearance of Amelia Earhart by Air Force Major Joe Gervais and written by Joe Klaas. Others have looked into the disappearance of Amelia Earhart, but never with the persistence, dedication, and revelations of Joe Gervais. In writing Amelia Earhart Lives, author Joe Klaas has faithfully recorded the suspense of an amazing ten-year trip through intrigue.

Transition To Gliders A Flight Training Handbook For Power Pilots Knauff, Thomas L. Pretsmioja Arna Valdemarsson hf 1990 Hard Cover This is the first book written expressly for the power pilot who is going to transition to gliders. In the past, power pilots were asked to purchase text books that were written for the beginning pilot. These books were filled with information that the power pilot already knew.

Night Flight Charles Lindbergh's Incredible Adventure Kramer, S.A. Grosset & Dunlap 2002

Today jets cross the Atlantic all the time. But 75 years ago nobody had ever flown across an ocean. A young pilot named Charles Lindbergh said that he was going to be the first. And he was! For grades 1-3.

The Great Book Of Bombers The World's most important bombers from World War 1 to the present day Lake, Jon Salamander Books Ltd. 2002 Hard Cover
Donated by Anandi Heinrich—September 2003 This book describes history's most important, influential and interesting bomber aircraft. Some are legendary, having achieved great success and distinction in war, but others were fascinating failures, and a handful are 'might have beens'—great aircraft which promised to revolutionize aerial warfare, but which ultimately failed to enter operational service.

Fly By Wire The Geese, The Glide, The Miracle On The Hudson Langewiesche, William Farrar, Straus and Giroux 2009 Hard Cover w/jacket
Donated by Mona Kendrick—November 2014
On January 15, 2009, a US Airways Airbus A320 had just taken off from LaGuardia Airport in New York when a flock of Canada geese collided with it, destroying both of its engines. Over the next three minutes, the plane's pilot, Chesley "Sully" Sullenberger, managed to glide it to a safe landing in the Hudson River. It was instant media sensation, the "Miracle on the Hudson," and Captain Sully was the hero.

Inside The Sky A Meditation On Flight Langewiesche, William Pantheon Books 1998 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Purchased from Gaudette Books at the Watsonville Fly-In & Air Show—2002
William Langewiesche's life has been deeply intertwined with the idea and act of flying. Fifty years ago his father, a test pilot, wrote Stick and Rudder, a text still considered by many to be the bible of aerial navigation. Langewiesche himself learned to fly while still a child. Now he shares his pilot's-eye view of flight with those of us who take flight for granted—exploring the inner world of a sky that remains as exotic and revealing as the most foreign destination.

Flying Higher The Women Airforce Service Pilots of World War II Langley, Wanda The Shoe String Press, Inc. 2002 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by The Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015 The year was 1943 and a global war was raging. In the U.S., all male military pilots were needed for combat duty, which left critical piloting jobs vacant across the land. Who would deliver the newly manufactured planes to their domestic bases? Who would help train cadet pilots and tow targets for gunnery practice, test new planes, and retest old ones. The answer was: the Women Airforce Service Pilots (WASP)

Stick and Rudder An Explanation of the Art of Flying Langewiesche, Wolfgang McGraw-Hill, Inc. 1972 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Anonymous—May 2013 Stick and Rudder is the first exact analysis of the art of flying ever attempted. It has been continuously in print for thirty-three years, and has enjoyed steadily increasing sales. Flight instructors have found that the book does indeed explain important phases of the art of flying, in a way the learner can use. It shows precisely what the pilot does when he flies, just how he does it, and why. These basics are largely unchanging. The book therefore is applicable to large airplanes and small, old airplanes and new, and is of interest not only to the learner but also to the accomplished pilot and to the instructor himself.

Keep Young and Fly Forever* or, at least know when it's time to stop* Lapp, Janet and Lorne Sheren Janet E. Lapp and Lorne B. Sheren 2009 Soft Cover
Donated by Joanne Nissen—January 2012 Just as your engine life might be extended longer than published TBO, your TBG (Time Before Grounding) might be much longer than you think.

Fly On Instruments A practical guide to obtaining and using the instrument rating, by a qualified flight instructor and aviation writer. Illustrated Larson, George C. Doubleday & Company, Inc. 1980
Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Laura A. Barnett—August 2008 FLY ON INSTRUMENTS incorporates a unique new compilation of many rules and regulations governing IFR flight along with interpretations of the rules.

Aerial Pioneers The U.S. Air Mail Service, 1918-1927 Leary, William M. Smithsonian Institution Press 1985 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Pat York—July 2001 Aerial Pioneers is a richly detailed account of the U.S. Air Mail Service, the little-remembered organization that laid the foundations for commercial aviation in the United States. Sponsored by the U.S. Post Office, the Air mail Service began operations between Washington, D.C., and New York in 1918 with six frail “Jennies.” Nine years later, postal pilots were flying day and night from coast to coast, maintaining the longest regularly scheduled air route in the world.

Before Amelia Women Pilots in the Early Days of Aviation Brassey's Inc. 2002 Lebow, Eileen F.
Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by the Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015 Amelia Earhart is, without a doubt, the world's most famous woman aviator, but she was not the first. Dozens of women pilots were in the vanguard of early aviation more than a decade before Amelia learned to fly an airplane. Before Amelia is the remarkable story of these women pioneer aviators who braved the skies during the first two decades of flight.

Bring Me A Unicorn Diaries and Letters of Anne Morrow Lindbergh 1922-1928 Lindbergh, Anne Morrow Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, Inc., New York 1971, 1972 First Edition Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Ann Walker—January 2006 Anne Morrow Lindbergh's life has spanned three worlds—home and family, aviation, and a distinguished literary career. The daughter of exceptional parents, Dwight W. and Elizabeth Cutter Morrow, her upbringing carefully nurtured her gifts of perception and literary expression and the self-discipline so much of her marriage to Charles A. Lindbergh in 1929 she learned to fly, navigate, and operate radio, and she accompanied him on flights from North America to Central America, South America, Asia, and Europe. She has raised five children and established homes at different places in the world.

Dearly Beloved Lindbergh, Anne Morrow Harcourt, Brace & World Inc. 1962
Hard Cover w/dust jacket Purchased for the library—March 2008 A June wedding, with the aura of blooms on everything, sets the scene for Anne Morrow Lindbergh's new book: Sally is marrying Mark, "in the sight of God and the face of this company." Men will read this luminous book to learn about women; women will read it to discover and come to terms with themselves.

Earth Shine Lindbergh, Anne Morrow Harcourt, Brace & World Inc. 1969 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Purchased for the library—March 2008 Anne Morrow Lindbergh sees the earth with a new wonder, as the one place in the universe which is known to harbor life, and not human life only but the life of animals, plants, rivers—a planet inhabited, nourishing, beautiful, shining. From this overwhelming experience she draws conclusions in their turn shine with her good will and integrity.

Gift From the Sea An answer to the conflicts in our lives. Lindbergh, Anne Morrow Vintage Books
A Division of Random House 1955 Hard Cover-1991 donated by Sharon Reeder—March 2012 The setting Anne Morrow Lindbergh's most widely praised book is the sea shore; the time, a brief vacation which had lifted her from the distractions of everyday existence into the sphere of meditation. As the sea tosses up its gifts—shells rare and perfect—so the mind, left to its ponderings, brings up its own treasures of the deep. And the shells become symbols here for the aspects of life she is contemplating.

Hour of Gold, Hour of Lead Lindbergh, Anne Morrow The New American Library, Inc., First print 1974 Hard Cover without dust jacket Donated by Geneva Cranford—March 2002 A mother's anguished words relieve the tragedy of her baby's kidnapping. With a 16-page picture album of rare personal photographs.

Listen! The Wind Lindbergh, Anne Morrow Harcourt, Brace and Company 1938 Hard Cover w/dust jacket—falling apart Purchased for the library—March 2008 Listen! The Wind" is the story of a survey flight around the North Atlantic Ocean in 1933. It is a true and accurate account of various incidents which occurred in flying from Africa to South America. The purpose of the flight was to study the air-routes between America and Europe. At that time, the air-routes of the world were entering their final stage of development. The countries had already been crossed and the continents connected. It remained only for the oceans to be spanned. Their great over-water distances constituted the last major barrier to the commerce of the air.

Locked Rooms and Open Doors Diaries and Letters 1933-1935 Lindbergh, Anne Morrow Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, Inc. 1974 Hard Cover w/dust jacket
Purchased for the library—March 2008 The diaries give an affectingly immediate sense of the hardships endured by a young woman sharing the exploits of a singularly determined and vigorous man. Far more than in any of her previously published books about their flights together, Mrs. Lindbergh shows what it was really like: her struggles with fear, homesickness for her child, and the varied discomforts of cold, heat excessive fatigue, primitive living conditions, bugs, and exposure to public curiosity. In compensation, there are the high rewards of early flying beauty and adventure, of equal partnership in a demanding task, and of living up to the standards set by an exceptional husband.

North to the Orient Lindbergh, Anne Morrow Quinn & Boden Company, Inc. 1935
Hard Cover without dust jacket Donated by Ann Walker—January 2006 This is a first hand account of Anne Morrow Lindbergh's travels and experiences as can only be told by the woman who experienced them first hand.

The Flower and the Nettle Lindbergh, Anne Morrow Harcourt Brace Jovanovich 1976 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Carolyn Dugger—March 2009
After the depressing and restrictive years following the kidnapping of the Lindberghs' first son, this fourth volume in Anne Morrow Lindbergh's autobiography describes a period of private peace—"the happiest years of my life." The Lindberghs sought privacy and security for their child in Europe, and found them in two remarkable homes.

The Steep Ascent Lindbergh, Anne Morrow Harcourt, Brace and Company (A WARTIME BOOK This complete edition is produced in full compliance with the government's regulations for conserving paper and other essential materials.) 1944
Hard Cover w/dust jacket In this new book, which she calls a fictional account of an actual incident, Anne Morrow Lindbergh has written the story of a dangerous flight over the Alps made by a young couple, Eve and Gerald, whose close relationship forms the basic pattern of the narrative.

The Wave of the Future A Confession of Faith Lindbergh, Anne Morrow
Harcourt, Brace and Company 1940 Hard Cover w/dust jacket A positive faith for the future, for those bewildered by the bitter world-events of our time, can be supplied only by one who knows that courage is vital in our daily lives, who believes in the poise of faith against fear. This is a sincere and heartfelt confession.

The Unicorn & Other Poems Lindbergh, Anne Morrow Vintage Books
Edition, 1972 Soft Cover Donated by Joanne Nissen—July 2006
A collection of poems by Anne Morrow Lindbergh.

War Within and Without Lindbergh, Anne Morrow Berkley Books 1981

Paperback

Donated by Ann Walker—January 2006 Anne Lindbergh writes in this fifth and final volume of her private papers with the sensitivity of mind and pen that have always marked her work. On almost every page there is an idea to remember or a description to applaud. But she writes now with surprising candor for a writer of such pronounced discretion and reserve, giving unexpected glimpses of her private life, her marriage and the real Charles Lindbergh.

The Spirit of St. Louis Lindbergh, Charles A. Scribner 1953 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by The Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015 In General, this book is about flying, and an aviator's life, in the beginning third of the 20th century. In particular, it describes the planning and execution of the first nonstop airplane flight between the continents of America and Europe. It has been fourteen years in the writing. Started in the city of Paris, during the tense prewar winter of 1938, it's manuscript was completed on the shore of Scotts Cove, off Long Island Sound, in the hardly more tranquil year of 1952.

"We" Lindbergh, Charles A. Grosset & Dunlap Publishers 1927 Hard Cover without dust jacket Donated by Joanne Nissen—August 2002 The famous Flier's own story of his life and his transatlantic flight, together with his views on the future of aviation.

Women of the Air Lomax, Judy Ballantine Books 1987 Soft Cover Donated by Louise Minniear—September 2001 The remarkable story of the women who pioneered the skies—from hot air balloons to the spacecraft Voyager.

Amelia Earhart The mystery solved Long, Elgen M. & Long, Marie K. Simon & Schuster 1999 Hardcover w/jacket Donated by Mary Ellen Eisemann—February 2009 The authors spent more than twenty-five years researching the mystery surrounding Earhart's final flight before finally determining what happened. Now with the recent discovery of long-lost radio messages from Earhart's final flight, we can say with confidence that she ran out of gas just short of her destination of Howland Island in the Pacific Ocean.

Cobras Over The Tundra Long, Everett Arktika in cooperation with Publishing House—Poligraphic Association "Saydy," Yakutsk, Russia 2001 Soft Cover Purchased by Monterey Bay Chapter 99s—June 2002 (Autographed) Today, few know that a 7,000 mile bridge existed over the hostile and desolate Arctic—an aerial bridge that linked two continents and turned the tide of Nazi conquest from 1942-1945. The Alaska-Siberia route was an unimaginable challenge to man and machine as nearly 8,000 airplanes were flown from Great Falls, Montana to Siberia, Russia. Young American and Soviet airmen quickly learned the Arctic is an unforgiving environment. To go down in a plane and survive meant conquering the mosquito hordes of summer or the bitter -60° cold of winter, and then there was the not so simple matter of being found.

Into The Teeth of the Tiger Lopez, Donald S. Smithsonian Books 1997
Soft Cover
Donated by Joanne Nissen—September 2009 Flying a shark-mouthed P-40 in the skies over China in 1943 and 1944, Donald S. Lopez participated in one of the most remarkable air campaigns of World War II. With orders to impede the Japanese advance over the vast Chinese countryside, the 23rd Fighter Group of the 14th Air Force—successors of the legendary Flying Tigers—flew countless sorties over mountainous, poorly mapped terrain, strafing supply lines and attacking troop concentrations even as the Japanese launched a major offensive to destroy them.

Straight On Till Morning The Biography of Beryl Markham Lovell, Mary S. St.
Martin's Press 1987 First US Edition Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Ann Walker—January 2006 "Always well known to the great white hunters of the time, and to their leisure-class clientele, Beryl Markham would twice go on to become a figure of international renown: in 1936, when she became the first person ever to fly the Atlantic solo the hard way – against the headwinds – from England to North America; and again in 1983, when her 1942 memoir, West with the Night, was republished to worldwide literary acclaim. Straight On Till Morning is the first biography of this truly remarkable woman.

The Sound of Wings The Life of Amelia Earhart Lovell, Mary S. St. Martin's Press 1989
First Edition Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Ann Walker—January 2006
The Sound of Wings describes Earhart's childhood in Kansas at the turn of the century; her close relationship with an alcoholic father; her early fascination with airplanes; the impact of Lindbergh's 1927 transatlantic flight on her life; her first meeting with G.P.
Putnam; and the peculiar business/matrimonial relationship that Earhart and Putnam formed between 1927 and her disappearance ten years later.

Anatomy of a Spin A Complete Study of the Stall/Spin Phenomena Lowery, John Airguide Publications, Inc 1981 Soft Cover Donated by Ann Walker—January 2006 This book has been written with the hope that increased knowledge of the stall/spin phenomenon will help pilots avoid some of the more hazardous pitfalls. For example how does tail design and center of gravity affect an aircraft in a spin? Why will an aircraft recover with opposite rudder and stick neutral with one pilot aboard, yet require opposite rudder/and full forward stick with two pilots?

Rod Machado's Instrument Pilot's Survival Manual A serious book written in a refreshing and humorous style! Machado, Rod Aviation Speakers Bureau 1991 Donated by Pat York—July 2001 This is a book to be used in learning how to think differently in the cockpit, a book to be used in acquiring the IFR decision making skills of a professional pilot. This book attempts to establish connections and relationships that often take many, many years, and thousands of hours of light experience, to identify. These relationships offer a pilot greater cockpit confidence and more effective decision making ability.

Rod Machado's Private Pilot Handbook The Ultimate Pilot Book Machado, Rod
The Aviation Speakers Bureau 1997 Soft Cover Donated by Ann
Walker—January 2006

Learn everything you need for: The FAA private pilot exam, biennial flight reviews, updating and refreshing your knowledge. A complete information manual by one of aviation's best-known and most humorous teachers.

Jean Batten The Garbo of the Skies Mackersey, Ian Macdonald
Publishers 1990 First Edition Hard Cover w/dust jacket 14.95 Pounds Jean Batten, whose sudden disappearance in Majorca in 1982 created a mystery for nearly five years, was one of the great aviation megastars of the 1930s. Her spectacular flights ranked with those of Britain's Amy Johnson and Amelia Earhart. Yet, despite her brilliance as a pilot, she remained the least well known of them all.

Smithy The Life of Sir Charles Kingsford Smith Mackersey, Ian Little, Brown and Company 1999

Soft cover When Sir Charles Kingsford Smith's aircraft Lady Southern Cross mysteriously disappeared off the Burmese coast in 1935, the golden age of aviation lost one of its most charismatic heroes: the man who had piloted the first flights across the Pacific in both directions, conquered the Tasman Sea and made the first successful westbound crossing of the Atlantic.

Apache Inside the Cockpit of the World's Most Deadly Fighting Machine Macy, Ed
Atlantic Monthly Press 2008 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Joanne Nissen—March 2010 Taking an Apache into battle is like playing an Xbox, a PlayStation, and a chess grand master simultaneously to operate this aircraft....And not just for a minute or two, but for three hours without a break. Miss one vital element, and you would kill yourself and your copilot in an instant.

West With The Night Markham, Beryl North Point Press 1983 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated anonymously—April 2013 Beryl Markham was born in England in 1902 and was taken by her father to East Africa in 1906. After apprenticing with her father as a trainer and breeder of race horses, she turned to aviation. From 1931 to 1936 Ms. Markham carried mail, passengers, and supplies in her small plane to the remote corners of the Sudan, Tanganyika, Kenya, and Rhodesia. In September 1936 she became the first person to fly solo across the Atlantic from east to west—taking off in England and crash-landing in Nova Scotia twenty-one hours and twenty-five minutes later. Ms Markham died August 3, 1986, at her home in Nairobi, Kenya.

The Wright Sister Katherine Wright and Her Famous Brother Maurer, Richard
Roaring Brook Press 2003 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Found in the Monterey Bay Chapter 99s end room @ Watsonville Airport—September 2007 This first authoritative biography of the Wright brothers' sister, Richard Maurer tells Katharine's story. Richard Maurer's account of this little known but pivotal member of the Wright family is based on an in-depth study of her personal papers and of the Wright family archives.

Double Eagle McCarry, Charles Little, Brown and Company 1979 Hard Cover without jacket

"A book that will tell us something inspiring about the human spirit: why men - and maybe why Americans in particular - will risk death to prove to themselves and to the world that men can do anything they choose to do." - Charles McCarry Double Eagle is the riveting, true account of the first flight across the Atlantic Ocean by men in a balloon
- by all reckonings one of the most extraordinary human adventures of all time. The 1978 voyage by Ben Abruzzo, Maxie Anderson, and Larry Newman, three self-made businessmen from Albuquerque, New Mexico, is a tale of supreme courage, endurance, ingenuity, and the all-powerful drive for glory. One of the world's most dangerous physical challenges, the transatlantic balloon voyage was a goal that defied success - all sixteen previous attempts had failed, with five lives lost.

The Lady Be Good Mystery Bomber of World War II McClendon, Dennis E. Tab books 1982 Soft Cover Donated by Pat York—July 2001 In April, 1943, an American B-24 Liberator bomber, nicknamed Lady Be Good, failed to return to its base after attacking Naples from Slouch, Libya, and was presumed to have crashed in the Mediterranean on the home leg. Step by step the author pieces together the solution to the bomber's mysterious fate through military records, personal correspondence, and dramatic evidence provided by the recovery of the remains of eight of the missing crew in what has come to be one of the most extraordinary combat incidents of the Second World War and one of the most indomitable and futile episodes in the history of desert survival.

Flying The Helicopter All about the history, operation, control and use of these fascinating flying machines!

McDonald, John J. Tab Books 1981 Soft Cover Donated by Pam O'Brien—

20th century autogyros and big, modern Boeing Vertols, no form of light has ever quite captured the imagination of aero buffs as has that of the helicopter! Now, here's a complete source-book on these unique and intriguing machines, covering the history of helicopters as well as every aspect of their operation, control, use, and the how-to's of flying them.

Helicopters—1948-1998 A contemporary history McGuire, Francis Frank L.

Jensen, Jr. 1998 Hardcover (first edition) “Helicopters: 1948-1998” traces the growth of the civil helicopter industry worldwide, including increasingly safe and more capable machines and the dedicated professionals who manufactured, operated, flew, and maintained them.

I Was Amelia Earhart : A Novel Mendelsohn, Jane Vintage Books, a division of Random House 1996 Paperback On July 2, 1937, Amelia Earhart flew her Lockheed Electra into a cloud bank off the coast of New Guinea and disappeared with her navigator, Fred Noonan. In this shimmering, sensuous novel, Earhart speaks to us from beyond the sky, suggesting what might have happened afterwards and proving that though the flesh is mortal, legends last forever.

For The Love of Flying: The Story of Laurentian Air Services Metcalfe-Chenail, Danielle Robin Brass Studio, Inc. 2009 Softcover Donated by Joanne Nissen—January 2011 For the Love of Flying tells the story of Laurentian Air Services and its subsidiaries, Air Schefferville, Delay river Outfitters and more. Drawing on extensive research and interviews with Laurentian’s owners, pilots and ground crew, author Danielle Metcalfe-Chenail explores this innovative company’s colourful 60-year history from its founding in 1936 with biplanes through the 1990s when it operated twin-engine turboprops.

Polar Winds A Century of Flying the North Metcalfe-Chenail, Danielle Dundurn Toronto 2014 Softcover Donated by Joanne Nissen—September 2017 Polar Winds uses the stories of these pilots and others to explore the greater history of air travel in the North, from the Klondike Gold Rush through to the end of the twentieth century. It encompasses everything from exploration flights to the North Pole in airships to passenger travel in jet liners; flying school buses for residential schools to indigenous pilots performing mercy flights; and from the harrowing crashes to the routine supply runs that make up daily life in the North. Above all, it is a unique history told through the experiences of northerners on the ground and in the sky.

Tales of the South Pacific Michener, James A. Macmillan Publishing Company 1995 Hard Cover without dust jacket Donated by Geneva Cranford—March 2002 The South Pacific: an enchantingly beautiful world of coral atolls, graceful coconut palms, and endless ocean. In the 1940’s, when the world was at war, it was a place where men went to do battle and, sometimes, to die. And sometimes, in the midst of war, they found friendship—and even love. Here, fifty years after that war ended, are the unforgettable tales of Nellie Forbush, Joe Cable, and bloody Mary as only James Michener can tell them.

Flying High Pioneer Women in American Aviation Mitchell, Charles R. and Kirk W. House Arcadia Publishing 2002 Softcover Donated by The Estate of Pamela O’Brien—September 2015 Flying High: Pioneer Women in American Aviation tells the story of Blanche Stuart Scott, who made $5,00 a week and broke forty-one bones; of Harriet Quimby, who flew the English Channel handily and then fell to her death in five feet of water near Boston Harbor; of Ruth Law and Katherine Stinson, who set American distance flying records—all before any of them were allowed to vote.

Three-Eight Charlie Mock, Jerrie Phoenix Graphix 2013 Soft Cover
Donated by Joanne Nissen—August 2014

Excerpt from Amazon.com: Three-Eight Charlie is the story of Jerrie Mock's record-setting flight as the first woman to solo around the world in 1964 in a single-engine Cessna 180. It's an insightful and well written account that includes intrigue and heroism, and discusses the cultures and geography of the world at the time. This book is a great read for aviation enthusiasts as well as young people, and anyone with big dreams. Three-Eight Charlie was originally published in 1970, but was out of print and difficult to find. Phoenix Graphix proudly released a collectible edition for the 50th anniversary of Jerrie's flight, which included maps, weather charts and photos that bring the story to life, and help the reader experience it more fully.

The Hindenburg Mooney, Michael M. Bantam Books 1973 Soft Cover
Donated by Joanne Nissen—November 2010 Bigger than the largest battleship and as long as the Queen Mary, the mammoth Nazi dirigible Hindenburg was the fastest, safest, and most luxurious means of transatlantic travel of its day. Its log boasted a glittering passenger list of international celebrities; it's voyages were enthusiastically reported by the world press. Ten stories tall with huge swastikas emblazoned on its sides, the Hindenburg became an impressive symbol of Nazi supremacy....until—on May 6, 1937, at Lakehurst, New Jersey, before a stunned and helpless crowd—the famous Zeppelin inexplicably exploded.

Amelia Earhart Morrissey, Muriel Earhart Bellerophon Books 1977
Donated by Mary Ellen Eisemann—March 2017 Amelia Earhart was born July 24, 1897 in Atchison, Kansas, the older daughter of Edwin Earhart, a minister's son and a graduate of Theil College and the University of Kansas Law School, and his wife, Amy Otis, daughter of a United States District Judge. Lindbergh A Biography Mosley, Leonard Doubleday & Company 1976
Hard Cover w/dust jacket The paths of Lindbergh and Mosley first crossed at the time of the famous Hauptmann trial. Mosley became intrigued -- and finally obsessed -- by the conflicting emotions that seethed behind the controlled front Lindbergh presented to the world. Long before Lindbergh's death he began this study of his enigmatic hero and has been adding substance to it ever since, placing a remarkable man in perspective for the first time.

Stand By To Die Myers, Robert Apollo Books 1985 First Edition Hard Cover w/dust jacket Signed copy donated by Kay Harmon—April 2013 Robert H. Myers is a man who, by chance, was in the right place at the right time. In the spring of 1937, he lived not far from the Oakland Airport, then known as the Bay Farm Island Airport. It was there he met and was befriended by world famous aviatrix Amelia Earhart. Stand By To Die is his story of what he heard over his father's short wave radio on the night of July 2, 1937. This book provides that "slice of history" not included in other books written about Amelia Earhart.

Night Witches The Amazing Story of Russia's Women Pilots in World War Two
Myles, Bruce Panther Books 1983 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by the Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015 In 1941, as the Nazi hordes swept eastwards into the Soviet Union, the desperate call went out for female volunteers to join the Russian Air Force. These were not just a few exceptional cases, for they made up three entire regiments of women. Bruce Myles, the author has brilliantly captured the lives, the exploits, the loves and fears of the women pilots whom the Germans came to dread as the 'NIGHT WITCHES'.

Collision Course The Truth About Airline Safety Nader, Ralph Smith, Wesley Tab/McGraw-Hill 1993
Soft Cover Uncorrected proof of a report on aviation safety.

I Was A Kamikaze Nagatsuka, Ryuji Macmillan Publishing 1972 Hard Cover w/dust jacket
Donated by Donna Crane-Bailey—November 2003 An aura of mystery has long surrounded the kamikazes, the legendary "Knights of the Divine Wind" who were the scourge of the U. S. Navy. They left a trail of death and destruction in the Pacific, particularly off Okinawa, as they crashed their planes against our battleships. At war's end, the score was 2,571 pilots crashed, 13 U.S. warships sunk, 174 damaged. What kind of men were these suicide-pilots? Nagatsuka is such a man—and in I Was A Kamikaze he tells the whole, almost incredible story.

Blind Trust How Deregulation Has Jeopardized Airline Safety and What You Can Do About It

Nance, John J. William Morrow and Company 1986 Hard Cover w/dust jacket

Donated by Pat York—July 2001 Airline flying in the mid-eighties is not unsafe—it is simply not as safe as it should be, can be, and must be. Nevertheless, the airline industry and the U. S. government are avoiding—hiding, in some case—the truth, for fear the truth may frighten away passengers.

Yankee Doodle Gals Women Pilots of World War II National Geographic Society 2001 Hard Cover w/dust jacket

Donated by Judy Spaulding—August 2007 In the 1940s a group of daring young women did something women weren't expected to do then: They flew fighter planes, bombers and every other kind of plane the Army had. They were WASPs: Women Airforce Service Pilots of World War II. One of our late Monterey Bay chapter members, Gene Shaffer Fitzpatrick is featured in this book.

Practical Guide to Aviation Weather 2nd Edition

Nelson, John L. Tab Books 1984 Soft Cover Donated by Pat York—July 2001 This exceptionally complete pilot's weather guide gives you the know-how and the respect for weather dynamics that can not only make you a safer, more competent pilot...but that could literally save your life! The author—a long-time commercial and private pilot, flying instructor, and aviation author—provides you with a solid foundation for making all types of vital weather-connected flying decisions...the decisions that separate proficient pilots from those likely to become accident statistics.

Wings for Life Nichols, Ruth J. B Lippincott Company 1957 Hard Cover w/dust jacket

Donated by the Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015 Here, in her own words, is the story of a woman who has known glory and despair, triumph and heartbreak. A survivor of more than fifty-five narrow escapes, Ruth Nichols has never learned the meaning of the word "quit." Her indomitable Viking spirit and Quaker background have profoundly influenced her own self-developed philosophy which enabled her to withstand such physically and mentally shattering blows as her nearly fatal crack-up in New Brunswick on her attempt to be the first woman to make a solo flight of the Atlantic. These same qualities made her the only person in aviation history to have set three maximum international class records in the same category—speed, altitude and distance.

Promised The Moon The Untold Story of the First Women in the Space Race Nolen, Stephanie Four Walls Eight Windows 2002 Hardcover w/jacket Donated by

Mona Kendrick—November 2014

Stephanie Nolen heard a story about Jerrie Cobb, and she couldn't let it go: Cobb, a world-record-setting pilot and a woman, was recruited in 1959 to take the astronaut tests. At the time, the United States was losing the space race. The Soviets had larger, more powerful rockets, and engineers at NASA thought women—smaller and lighter—might be the answer to their problems. Women were also thought to be more tolerant of isolation and pain.

A Dance with Death Soviet Airwomen in World War II Noogle, Anne Texas A&M University Press 1994 Hardcover w/jacket Donated by Mona Kendrick—November 2014

In their own vivid words, the women members of the Soviet air force recount their dramatic efforts against the German forces in World War II. These brave women, the first ever to fly in combat, proved that women could be among the best of warriors, withstanding the rigors of combat and downing the enemy.

Fly Off Winning Can Be Deadly Norris, Bob Harper Paperbacks 1999 Paper Back

Donated by Laura Barnett—October 2001 It's an event like no other: an exclusive winner-takes-all fly-off competition pitting six state-of-the-art jets from leading aircraft makers flown by the world's boldest fighter pilots. In five nerve-wracking events—including a search-and-destroy mission and vicious dogfights over the scorching sands of the Great Arabian Desert—each of these veteran top guns will use their expertise and guts to win billions of dollars in exclusive government contracts. Award-winning reporter Jack Warner is there covering the events, but now he's on the inside, directing the media coverage.

United States Women in Aviation 1930-1939 Oakes, Claudia M. Smithsonian Institution Press 1991

Soft Cover Donated by The Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015 This book highlights women who were the counterparts of Amelia Earhart and Jacqueline Cochran. They flew during a time when learning to fly an airplane was not considered a ladylike ambition. Yet, fly they did, and the records fell whenever they dared to compete..... Though they wished to make serious contributions to aviation, they were more concerned with inspiring other women to fly—as passengers, as pilots, for business and for pleasure.... They had a profound effect on the acceptance and growth of American aviation.

Aerobatics Today Revised Edition O'Dell, Bob St. Martin's Press 1984 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Pat York—July 2001 This edition incorporates the latest technological innovations and changes in international rules and organizations of this fast-growing sport.

Weather Nature in Motion Oman, Anne H. National Geographic 2005 Hard Cover w/dust jacket

Donated by Judy Spaulding—August 2007 From global weather patterns to individual snowflakes, from benevolent trade winds to ferociously destructive storms from season to season, this informative book explores every aspect of the complex interaction of forces we call weather. Its clear, concise text is supplemented and amplified by dramatic photographs and explanatory diagrams that show just how hurricanes and tornadoes form, why the prevailing winds blow in particular directions north and south of the Equator, and much more.

Flying Tigress A Memoir O'Neill, Norah Ascending Journey Press 2005
Soft Cover Autographed Donated by Donna Crane-Bailey—October 2006

Flying Tigress is the memoir of the first woman pilot hired by Flying Tiger's the macho, globe-straddling, cargo airline started by World War II flying aces. Armed with a quick wit and a passion for flying, Norah O'Neill dared to cross the cockpit threshold and to wage a battle for acceptance. Bravely honest, wise and finny, Tigress is human drama played out against the breathtaking backdrop of the skies.

A Dream of Eagles The story of New York, Rio & Buenos Aires Line (NYRBA) and the imaginative

World War I ace who conceived and built it—over 7800—in 1930 O'Neill, Ralph A.
with Joseph F. Hood

San Francisco Book Company/Houghton Mifflin Book 1973 Hard Cover w/dust jacket

Donated by Donna Crane-Bailey—November 2003 A Dream of Eagles is a chronicle of rare adventure and great achievement against enormous odds—and an important addition to the history of commercial aviation. It is the fascinating story, recorded here for the first time, of New York, Rio & Buenos Aires Line (NYRBA), the visionary idea of Ralph A. O'Neill, who built a 7800-mile airline through hurricane zones, tropical rain belts, and some of the world's most hazardous mountains in the late 1920s. Although it was not his intention, his work eventually put Pan American business.

Wings of Cessna Model 120 to the Citation III Phillips, Edward H. Flying Books 1986

Soft Cover Donated by Ann Walker—January 2006 Airplanes are not living things, yet they are conceived in the minds of men, shaped by the eye and wrought from the labor of human hands. For more than half a century the men and women of Cessna have made aluminum and steel come to life and take wing. Thousands of people, from the president to the production line worker, have contributed their unique talents and abilities to make Cessna the world's largest producer of light airplanes.

Miss Todd and Her Wonderful Flying Machine Poletti, Frances & Yee, Kristina Hard Cover w/jacket cover Compendium, Inc. 2014 Donated by Jeanne Sabankaya—April 2018 Children's book. In 1910, the real Miss Lily Todd became the first woman in the world to build and design an airplane. The odds were against her every step of the way, but she did it. Then, she disappeared into history without ever taking to the skies. This is the story for Lily, to celebrate her courage and determination, and to imagine the ending we would have hoped for her.

The Flying North Potter, Jean The Macmillan Company 1947 Hard Cover with Jacket folded inside of book Donated by Connie Brien—October 2006 This is a book about the bush pilots of Alaska. Alaskans are the flyingest people under the American flag and probably the flyingest people in the world. Only certain northerly sections of Canada and the Soviet Union may rival Alaska's aviation record. By 1939 the small airlines of the Territory were hauling twenty-three times as many passengers and a thousand times as much freight, per capita, as the airlines of the United States.

Spitfire Price, Alfred Charles Scribner's Sons, 1979 Hard Cover with dust jacket Donated by Laura Barnett—April 2012 The story of the progressive development of the Spitfire from the Mark 1 to the final Mark 24 is a lengthy one and has been covered several times before. It is not intended to relate the story yet again in this book. Readers requiring more detail on individual marks of Spitfire are invited to refer to Spitfire—the Story of a Famous Fighter by Bruce Robertson, the most comprehensive work on this aspect of the aircraft.

Soaring Wings Putnam, George Palmer Manor Books 1972 Paperback Donated by Connie Breien—July 2006 A biography on Amelia Earhart by husband George Palmer Putnam.

Clear the Cow Pasture, I'm Coming In For A Landing! A story of Amelia Earhart Quackenbush, Robert Simon and Schuster Books for Young Readers 1990 Hard Cover w/jacket A biography of the courageous aviatrix who became the first woman to fly across the Atlantic.

Night Flying For Private Pilots Quirk, Ronald E. University Printing Centers, Inc. 1973 Soft Cover Donated by Sandy Pratt—June 2003 The author has brought to the reader as much information pertaining to night VFR flying as he has gathered through reading, study, and especially experience.

No Visible Horizon Surviving the World's Most Dangerous Sport Ramo, Joshua Cooper Simon & Schuster 2003 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Joanne Nissen—March 2004 The flying life has always demanded a passage across the razor's edge. At any moment you could slip to the other side: a gas leak, weather, fire in the cockpit. In this literary debut, Joshua Cooper Ramo has crafted a meditation on the seduction of flight and a passionate love letter to a life of risk. It is partly the story of his own decision, after a decade of casual aerobatics, to transform himself into a serious competitive pilot aiming to finish high at the U.S. national competition. He also introduces us to some of the greatest aerobatic pilots in the world.

America's White Table Raven, Margot Theis Sleeping Bear Press 2005 Hard Back Cover w/dust jacket Found in The Monterey Bay Chapter 99s end room @ Watsonville Airport—September 2007 A little-known tradition to the outside civilian world, "the white table" originated during the time of the Vietnam War as a symbol for and remembrance to service members held prisoner of war or missing in action. Solitary and solemn, it is the table where no one will ever sit.

Flying North South East and West Reece, Captain Terry I Universe Inc. 2007 Hard Copy w/dust jacket & autographed Donated by Captain Terry Reece—December 2007 Born to a family of transplanted North Carolinians who moved to Washington State, a young Reece explored the hills of the Pacific Northwest. Hiking in the mountains and being a fire lookout gave him a taste of adventure, but he craved more—and he got it. Reece's first flying lesson ended in a cloud of billowing dust, ripped metal, and broken Plexiglas. But that didn't keep him grounded. Over the next few years, he navigated his Lockheed C-130 to steamy nights in Rangoon, risky undercover aircraft deliveries to Libya, icy Arctic expeditions, and desperate flights out of the desert with machine guns pointed at his gut, to landing Boeing jets on short, icy runways on Alaska's Aleutian Chain.

No Place for a Lady The Story of Canadian Women Pilots 1928-1992 Render, Shirley Hard Cover w/dust jacket Autographed by author. Donated by The Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015 No Place for a Lady is the first book ever written about Canada's women pilots. The stories within, told mostly in the women's own words, are revealing, inspiring, maddening, and often funny. Based on hundreds of personal interviews with men and women in civil and military aviation, the book reveals the women's determined characters and the often single-minded quest of Canada's female aviators from 1928 to the present.

The Wright Brothers Pioneers of American Aviation Reynolds, Quentin
Random House, Inc. Children's Publishing 1950 Hard Cover without jacket Donated by Laura Barnett—4 2003 Number ten in the Landmark Series. The biography of the Wright Brothers, Orville and Wilbur, who were the first humans to fly powered aircraft.

Skunk Works A Personal Memoir of My Years at Lockheed Rich, Ben R. & Leo Janos
Back Bay Books 1994 Soft Cover Donated by Louise Minniear—June 2002
Skunk Works is the true story of America's most secret and successful aerospace operation. As recounted by Ben Rich, the operation's brilliant boss for nearly two decades, the chronicle of Lockheed's legendary Skunk Works is a drama of cold war confrontations and Gulf War air combat, of extraordinary feats of engineering and human achievement against fantastic odds. Here are up-close portraits of the maverick band of scientists and engineers who made the Skunk Works so renowned.

This book was removed from our library and never returned!

Amelia Earhart A biography Rich, Doris Smithsonian Institution 1989

Jackie Cochran Pilot in the Fastest Lane Rich, Doris L. University Press of Florida 2007
Hard Cover w/dust jacket Doris L. Rich, in her fourth biography of women aviators, draws upon previously unpublished information about Cochran's early years and on her correspondence with U. S. presidents, Air Force generals, aircraft designers, test pilots and business tycoons.

The Magnificent Moisants Champions of Early Flight Rich, Doris L. Smithsonian Institution Press 1998 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Purchased for the chapter at the Watsonville Fly-In & Air Show May 2002 Between the first Kitty Hawk flight and World War I, a small group of flyers risked their lives and fortunes to convince a skeptical public that the airplane was destined to become safe, practical, and commonplace. Among the most flamboyant of aviation's pioneers were Alfred John, and Matilde Moisant, a family of fervent believers in aviation who built and tested planes, ran a flight school, set and broke records, and staged air exhibitions seen by thousands in the United States, Cuba and Mexico. Famed for their bravado and charm, the Moisant siblings ardently promoted the cause of commercial aviation, predicting transatlantic crossings, scheduled flights between cities, and air deliveries of mail decades before the fact.

Queen Bess Daredevil Aviator Rich, Doris Smithsonian Institution Press 1993 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Doris L. Rich presents the brief but intense life of Bessie Coleman, America's first African American woman aviator. Born in 1892 in Atlanta, Texas, she would become known as "Queen Bess," a barnstormer and flying-circus performer who defied the strictures of race, sex, and society in pursuit of a dream.

Hidden Heroine—Fay Gillis Wells Rimmerman, Sara Zeus Enterprises, Inc., Publishers 1999 Soft Cover Autographed by Fay Gillis Wells Donated by The Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015

One -Mission Man—An American POW's Struggle to Survive Hitler's Nazi Prison Camp Teton Crest Publishing 2012 Softcover Signed by all three authors Donated by Joanne Nissen—August 2017

After enlisting in the U.S. Army Air Corps in 1942 and training diligently for months as a bombardier, David Ririe spent only one day in combat. On his first—and last—mission, his plane was shot down. Crash landing on a military reserve outside Rostock, Germany, he was seized by soldiers who sent him Stalag Luft 1, an isolated prisoner of war camp along the Baltic coast. For the next 13 months, Ririe struggled to survive Nazi brutality and starvation, repeatedly digging tunnels unsuccessfully to escape. In One-Mission man, Ririe speaks with honesty and eloquence about his family, daily life in the camp and the harrowing chaos that followed liberation by the Russians.

Goshawk Squadron A novel by Derek Robinson Robinson, Derek Viking Press 1971 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Laura A. Barnett—April 2007 Set during WWI, Woolley, his men, and their lumbering SE5 biplanes in mortal combat convey World War I aerial warfare with such force that most previous depictions seem like child's play indeed.

Lonely Eagles The Story of America's Black Air Force In World War II Rose D.D.S., Robert

Tuskegee Airmen Inc., Los Angeles Chapter 1999 Hard Cover without dust jacket
Donated by Louise Minniear—October 2003 Lonely Eagles is in no way intended as a definitive history of the Tuskegee story. Volumes could be written on the subject, however, to date, no one has....The names, places and incidents included are as historically accurate as research could provide. the selection of material is no more or less significant than that which has been excluded, but merely serves as examples which may hopefully answer questions regarding the controversy, misunderstanding and gross inaccuracies surrounding the role of the black person in the days of the segregated U.S. Army Air Forces.

Women And Flight Portraits of contemporary women pilots Russo, Carolyn Smithsonian Institution 1997 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Ann Walker--January 2006

This book celebrates America's unsung pilots, with extensive interviews and biographical sketches of thirty-six women aviators and astronauts from all walks of airborne life. The range of the women included is inspiring, from an eight-eight-year-old who still operates an airfield to the first woman assigned to fly a Lockheed U-2 reconnaissance aircraft for the U.S. Air Force; from the only Eskimo woman aviator in Alaska, Ellen Paneok— or "Owl Eyes" to the Eskimo elders—to Shannon Lucid, the astronaut who set an American record for length of time in space.

Dead Stick Rust, Megan Mallory The Berkley Publishing Group 1998 Paperback

Megan Rust, herself and Alaskan native and a professional pilot, has created a novel about aviator Taylor Morgan, a pilot for LifeLine Air Ambulance, and saving lives is her business—and her pleasure as well.

Alaska's Sky Follies The Funny Side of Flying in the Far North Rychetnik, Joe Epicenter Press 1995 Soft Cover Donated by Judy Spaulding—August 2007 You know those outlandish tales you've heard about the early bush pilots of the Far North? Turns out some of them are true. Author Joe Rychetnik, a former Alaska State Trooper turned reporter-photographer and correspondent for Time-Life News Service and United Press International, reveals the humorous truth about an earlier era of aviation when breaking the rules was the rule, when even temperamental airplanes and aerial mishaps had a lighter side, when legends-to-be flew across the huge new state of Alaska.

Ocean Flying 2nd Edition Sacchi, Louise Tab Books 1989 Hard Cover with dust jacket

Donated by Joanne Nissen—September 2016 A practical, information-packed manual as well as a fascinating adventure guide!

Flight To Arras Saint-Exupéry, Antoine De Harcourt Brace & Company ?-date Soft Cover Donated by Joanne Nissen—July 2006
Flight to Arras is Saint Exupéry's recollection of the final shattering days during World War II when, thought the defeat of France was imminent, a pitifully inadequate number of French pilots and their crews continued to risk their lives against the Germans. The action of the book takes place during a single reconnaissance mission over the burning city of Arras. But Saint Exupéry transcends the gripping experience of the flight itself to reflect on why men flight and how they feel in the presence of death.

Night Flight Saint-Exupery, Antoine De Harcourt, Brace & World, Inc., 1942 Soft Cover Night Flight is the story of hazardous flights made by night through the dangers of darkness and the destructive splendor of sudden Andean storms. It is a story of men who risk their lives to deliver mail in flimsy crates....fabien, the youthful pilot, who sees in flying a chance for heroic action.....Rivière, his superior, who believes that man's salvation lies not in freedom but in the acceptance of duty.

Wind, Sand and Stars Saint-Exupéry, Antoine De Harcourt Brace & Company 1939
Hard copy donated by Pam Cabak—October 2003 Antoine de Saint-Exupéry, best known as the author of "The Little Prince", was also a pioneer aviator. In 1944 he flew his plane over the Mediterranean on a World War II reconnaissance mission from which he never returned. He has been called "the Joseph Conrad of the air." Recipient of the Grand Prix of the Académie Française, Wind, Sand and Stars is unsurpassed in capturing the grandeur, danger, and isolation of light. Its exciting account of air adventure—through the treacherous passes of the Pyrenees, above the Sahara, along the snowy ramparts of the Andes—combined with lyrical prose and the soaring spirit of a philosopher, makes this book one of the most popular works ever written about flying.

Alaska Bush Pilots In the Float Country Satterfield, Archie Superior Publishing Company 1969
Hard Cover w/jacket The men who brought airplanes to Alaska's Panhandle—The Float Country—were a different breed; a little braver than the average pilot and blessed with that particular skill and set of nerves it requires to fly float planes—those Lockheed Vegas made of plywood that were held together by "termites holding hands" and the sturdy Fairchild 71s and Bellancas.

The Proficient Pilot Revised and Enlarged Edition Schiff, Barry Macmillan Publishing Co. 1985
Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Pat York—July 2001 The well respected author writes about topics such as: Dynamics of Flight, Proficiency and Technique, Flightworthy Considerations to name just a few.

Flying Carpets, Flying Wings The Biography of Moye W. Stephens Schultz, Barbara Little Buttes Publishing 2010 Softcover Donated by Laura A. Barnett
—October 2015

Flying Carpets, Flying Wings is a biography about Moye W. Stephens, his friends, and his achievements in aviation. During the 1920s, Moye flew with Eddie Bellande, Howard Hughes, Allan Hancock, Jack Northrop, and many other notable aviators. This led to a career flying Ford trimotors for Maddux, TAT, and T & WA Airlines. From 1930-1932, Moye flew author Richard Halliburton around the world in The Flying Carpet. In 1939, Moye was one of a select few who formed Northrop Corporation where he test flew several Northrop prototypes including the flying wing. His well-researched and definitive biography spans nearly eighty years of aviation.

Pancho The Biography of Florence Lowe Barnes Schultz, Barbara Hunter Little Buttes Publishing 2004

Softcover Donated by Laura A Barnett—October 2015 Pancho Barnes was one of aviation's most colorful members. In the 1920's, she barnstormed her way through the skies to become one of the best, capturing the women's speed record in 1930. The test pilots of Edwards Air Force Base designated Pancho's "Happy Bottom Riding Club" their unofficial debriefing room in the 1950's. Among those who respected Pancho, for both her character and her abilities, were Amelia Earhart, Louise Thaden, and Jimmy Doolittle.

The Spruce Goose.

God Is My Co-Pilot Scott, Col. Robert L. Ballantine Books 1963

Soft Cover

Donated by Connie Breien—July 2006 This is a narrative of a man who has had one of the outstanding careers in American aviation. After Pearl Harbor, when he was marked too old for combat flying at 34, Colonel Scott refused to abandon his dream of a “mission against Tokyo.” In this he did not succeed, through no fault of his own, but over the Burma Road, and in enemy-occupied China he compiled a brilliant record as group commander of General Chennault’s fighter forces—the dedicated veterans of the American Volunteer Group in China.

The President's Plane is Missing Serling, Robert J. Doubleday & Company, Inc. 1967 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Joanne Nissen—August 2002 One Monday evening, Air force One, with the President of the United States on board, takes off from Andrews Air Force Base on what is to be a routine flight. The destination is Palm Springs, where the President, wearied by the tensions of the worsening international situation, plans a quiet, secluded vacation. But suddenly, while flying over Arizona, the plane disappears from the horrified controller's radar screen. Even as the world counts the few hours to fuel exhaustion time, which would mean that the plane must definitely be down somewhere, a massive search begins....

All The Brave Promises Memories of Aircraft Woman 2nd Class 2146391
Charles Scribner's Sons 1988

Donated by Mona Kendrick—November 2014 Softcover All The Brave Promises is Mary Lee Settle's memoir of her experiences in England during the Second World War. An account of the war as it affected the "thousands of unknown plodding people caught up in a deadening authority," it depicts the horror of war in bombing raids, in planes lost in fog, in ships quietly sunk at night, in terrible accidents caused by forgetfulness under pressure, and in the individual tragedies of lives uprooted.

Classic Monoplanes Shamburger, Page Sports Car Press 1966 Soft Cover Donated by Connie Breien—July 2006 Page Shamburger writes about the history and development of many airplanes in this book.

Sally Ride America's First Woman In Space Sherr, Lynn Simon & Schuster 2014 Hard Cover w/jacket Donated by Joanne Nissen—July 20, 2016 Sally Ride made history as the first American woman in space. A member of the first astronaut class to include women, she broke through a quarter-century of white male fighter jocks when NASA chose her for the seventh shuttle mission, cracking the celestial ceiling and convincing several generations of women that they, too, could do anything.

The Pilot's Wife Shreve, Anita Little, Brown and Company 1998 Soft Cover

A pilot's wife is taught to be prepared for the late-night knock at the door, but when Kathryn Lyons receives word that a plane flown by her husband, Jack, has exploded near the coast of Ireland, she confronts the unfathomable—one startling revelation at a time. Soon drawn into a maelstrom of publicity fueled by rumors that Kack led a secret life, Kathryn sets out to learn who her husband really was, whatever that knowledge might cost. Her search propels this taut, impassioned novel as it movingly explores the question. How well can we ever really know another person.

Aviation Safety's Flying Circus Shugarts, David A. (edited by) Belvoir Publications 1984

Soft Cover Donated by Pat York—July 2001 This book contains a collection of articles, gleaned from the past five years of Aviation Safety, in which (mostly) the only physical consequence of a pilot's gaffe was a cut or a bruise. It's not the intent of the publisher to make light of any accident, but these stories qualify as the "lighter side" of their reporting.

Daughter of the Air The Brief Soaring Life of Cornelia Fort Simbeck, Rob Atlantic Monthly Press 1999 Donated by The Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015 Cornelia Fort's (1919-1943) career as one of America's first female army pilots took her far from home—to Hawaii and later to Delaware and California as a member of the WAFS, the first women's flight squadron. In a remarkable coincidence of fate, she was in the air at Pearl Harbor when the Japanese attacked. Throughout her short, extraordinary life she recorded her experiences in eloquent letters.

A Season in the Air One Man's Adventures in Flying Simmons, Thomas Fawcett Columbine 1993

Hard Cover w/dust jacket In the bleak Boston winter of 1990, Tom Simmons hit bottom. His job teaching writing at MIT had become an unexpected punishment. His marriage was unraveling. The anxiety that had plagued him since childhood was edging closer to the abyss of panic. Simmons desperately needed an escape hatch, and he found it, unaccountably, in the one action he feared above all else—flying.

Stealth Down Simpson, Ross W. Narwhal Press 2002 Hard Cover w/jacket Autographed Stealth Down is the exclusive story of a remarkable rescue that occurred during the Allied air campaign against Yugoslavia. On the fourth night of the war, a Serbian surface-to-air missile of Vietnam-era vintage shot down one of America's premier fighter planes—the F-117A Nighthawk. The pilot—a veteran of Operation Desert Storm—was able to safely eject from his crippled fighter.

Queen of the Hurricanes The Fearless Elsie MacGill Second Story Press 2014 Signed by the author Softcover Donated by Joanne Nissen—September 2016 Elsie's work during the Second World War on aircraft designs and production led to her being called "Queen of the Hurricanes: in a popular American comic book. She continued her achievements into the 1970s as an activist, changing the lives of women in Canada for the better. A truly inspiring woman for the ages.

She Flew Bombers: From the Factories to the Bases During World War II, A Novel Slone, Jeane, Booklocer.com, Inc. 2009 Soft Cover Donated by Kay Harmon—January 2011 This historical novel is based entirely on fact. The characters have been fictionalized. She Flew Bombers is a fascinating account of one woman's love of flying and her involvement with the Women Airforce Service Pilots (WASPs) during World War II. Anyone interested in aviation history, women's history, or the World War II "war effort" will appreciate Jeane Slone's careful research, as well as her ability to bring this little-known aspect of the US history to life so vividly.

Amy Johnson Smith, Constance Babington Sutton Publishing Limited
2004 Soft Cover

Donated by Watsonville Chapter EAA—May 2009 In May, 1930, Amy Johnson, a typist from Hull, took off from Croydon Airport with a thermos flask and a packet of sandwiches to try and beat the world solo record to Australia. She arrived, sun-blistered and with grease on her face, after weeks of flying a second-hand, open-cockpit biplane with no radio communication and the most basic of maps. Her adventures, including a forced landing in the Iraqi desert and on a football pitch near Rangoon, inspired the nation following the Great War. Her career was followed by millions, until her plane disappeared over the Thames Estuary, sparking rumours which are still being investigated today. Her body has never been found.

Aviatrix Smith, Elinor Harcourt Brace Jovanovich Signed by Elinor
Smith First Edition 1981 Hard Cover w/dust jacket signed Donated by Geneva Cranford—March 2002

After attracting national attention by flying under the four New York City bridges, Elinor Smith went on to pilot 158 different models of aircraft, to set altitude, endurance, and refueling records, and to be named "Best Woman Pilot" in 1930. Aviatrix is a warm and loving memoir of an exciting time in aviation. The author shares with us some wonderful adventures.

Flygirl Smith, Sherri L. Published by Speak An imprint of Penguin Group
2010 Donated by Joanne Nissen—August 2014 Soft Cover Ida's daddy was a pilot, and when he took her flying, she never wanted to come down again. But after his death, the sky is off-limits to a young black woman such as Ida. When America enters World War II, the Army forms the WASP—Women Air Force Service Pilots—and Ida has a chance to join, if she's willing to use her light skin to pass as a white girl. She wants to fly more than anything, but Ida soon learns that denying one's identity and family is a heavy burden. Can she fulfill her dream without losing herself?

Week-End Pilot Smith, Frank Kingston Vintage Books Edition 1974
Donated by Pat York—July 2001 Frank Kingston Smith did what many people dream of doing: he broke out of his workaday rut and became free as a bird. Beset by tension problems and advised by his doctor to find a relaxing hobby, he bought a nine-year old used plane and learned to fly.

Performance Flight Testing Smith, Hubert "Skip" Tab Books 1982 Donated by
Pat York—July 2001

Now for the first time, an easy-to-follow guide to testing aircraft performance, written especially for light plane owners and pilots, and homebuilders. Why is performance testing necessary? The answer is obvious for homebuilt planes....but why test a commercially-produced aircraft that's been through rigorous testing by the manufacturer? As the author explains, no two planes are 100% alike; each machine has its own flying characteristics, even brand new models.

Making Up Amelia A Novel Smith, Marjorie Yokoi Books 2012 Soft Cover
Donated by Joanne Nissen—July 2013 Autographed by Marjorie Smith
This isn't how romantic tropical islands are supposed to be. Two vicious murders. Two bodies soaked in blood. In two hotel rooms separated by almost 2000 miles and five decades. A blood-stained photo of Amelia Earhart posing in front of a hospital in Saipan with someone gripping her arm. Trouble is, there's no evidence that Earhart was ever in Saipan. But if that's not her in the photo, who is it? And why would someone make it up? Three intertwined stories come to an inevitable conclusion on Guam, the island that likes to say it is "Where America's Day Begins."

Guide to the Biennial Flight Review Spanitz, Jackie Aviation Supplies & Academics, Inc 2001
Third Edition Soft cover Complete preparation for issuing or taking a Flight Review.

Love at First Flight Spalding, Charles and Carney, Otis Hard Cover w/dust jacket
The Riverside Press 1943 A humorous novel about learning to fly at the beginning of World War II.

John Joseph Montgomery Father of Basic Flying Spearman, Arthur Dunning, SJ University of Santa Clara 1977 Soft Cover Donated by Louise Minniear—October 2003
John J. Montgomery is recognized in various historical publications as the pioneer in designing and developing control for heavier-than-air flight. The many histories of aviation have given ample credit to such pioneers as Lilienthal, Langley, the Wrights and Chanute. The credit given to Montgomery is, by contrast, rather meager. Some sources overlook the validity and even the historic reality of Montgomery's contributions. He studied and worked in many fields such as electricity, mechanics, wireless communication, and most notably in the conquest of air. A complete study of his life does not appear to have been published prior to this time.

The Pilots Spencer, James G. P. Putnam's Sons 2003 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Laura Barnett—March 2003 James Spencer flew B-24 bombers over New Guinea, Borneo, and the Philippines in 1944 and 1945, and it was only decades later that he began to write about it, combining the literal truth as he remembered it with imagination based on all that he'd seen and heard. The result is The Pilots, a novel-in-stories about a group of young men, their comrades and girlfriends, as they evolve in often unpredictable ways: Blake Hurlingame and Steve Larkin, boyhood friends who take different paths into fighters and bombers; Doc, the flight surgeon, battling combat fatigue; Courtenay, the captain whose arrogant bluster masks hidden demons; and Addie, the woman who will leave her mark on them all.

They Call Me Mama Daktari Spoerry, Anne Moulin Publishing Limited
1996 Softcover

Donated by The Estate of Pamela O'Brien—September 2015 “Dr. Spoerry’s story traces the evolution of AMREF (African Medical and Research Foundation) through the eyes of one of its most colourful actors. Anne Spoerry, physician, aviator and adventurer, lost her heart to the people she has served in East Africa. Her life exemplifies the spirit that medicine knows no geographic frontiers.”

Pearl Harbor: The Way It Was Stone, Scott C. S. Donated by Alice Talnack—March 2017 Island Heritage Publishing 2016 Soft Cover Scott Stone has crafted a factual and enlightening recreation of how the tragic events of December 7, 1941, unfolded. His careful chronology depicts not only what happened at the airfields and along Battleship Row but also how it affected people who lived and died during the attack. Today, over a million visitors come to the National Park Service visitor center at Pearl Harbor to begin their journey back to the days of 1941. This book is a helpful guide in the journey of understanding the emotions and lessons of Pearl Harbor.

Flying For Her Country: The American And Soviet Women Military Pilots of World War II Strebe, Amy Goodpaster Donated by Joanne Nissen—January 2011 Potomac Books, Inc. 2009 Soft Cover, autographed Nicole M. E. Malachowski writes: “In reading Flying for Her Country, I was humbly reminded of the debt of gratitude I owe to these courageous women pilots....In telling the story of these World War II heroes, Amy Goodpaster Strebe skillfully reminds us that women love their country too, and some of us choose to show it by wearing our nation’s uniform.”

Flight Stever, Guyford Haggerty, James Time Life Book 1965 Hard Cover Contains a loose Rand-McNally poster on the Solar System The dynamic nature of the growth of science and technology in our century, and their impact on society and on the individual, are nowhere better evident than in the fulfillment of man's ancient dream to fly through the air. Born within the lifetime of many of us, aviation has grown, slowly at first and more rapidly later, until it has removed the barriers of space and time between the peoples of the earth. The authors review for us how all this came to pass.

Avoiding Common Pilot Errors An Air Traffic Controller’s View Stewart, John Tab Books 1989 Hard Cover no dust jacket Donated by Pat York—July 2001 This book interprets—from the controller’s perspective—mistakes pilots frequently make when operating in controlled airspace. Drawing on 20 years experience in aviation as a pilot, instructor, air traffic controller, and FAA supervisor, John Stewart cites examples of situations frequently encountered by controllers that disclose these problem areas: Lack of education, Little to no preflight preparation, need for better communications, regulations, TCAs and ARSAs.

Aviation Firsts 336 Questions and answers Stoff, Joshua Dover Publications, 2000, Soft Cover

This book offers a compilation of many of the fascinating highlights of man's efforts to conquer the sky and the heavens. It provides a simple running history of the development of aviation and space flight. It is hoped that this chronology will provide a valuable tool for a wide variety of people.

Transatlantic Flight A picture history, 1873-1939 Stoff, Joshua Dover Publications, 2000 Soft Cover For many, the names Washington Donaldson, Walter Wellman, J. C. Woods, and G. H. Scott do not automatically ring a bell in connection with the history of transatlantic flight. Yet these and scores of other brave men and women successfully challenged the Atlantic in heroic flights before Charles Lindbergh, Amelia Earhart, and "Wrong-Way" Corrigan. This profusely illustrated volume records the exciting saga of those daring and sometimes reckless adventurers who battled storms, darkness, and high winds in fragile aircraft to pave the way for aviators who would eventually conquer the ocean and fly directly from North America to Europe and beyond.

Highest Duty My search for What Really Matters Sullenberger, Capt. Chesley "Sully" with Jeffrey Zaslow

Harper Collins 2009 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Carolgene Dierolf—July 2013 In January 2009, the world witnessed one of the most remarkable emergency landings in history when Captain Sullenberger brought a crippled US Airways flight onto the Hudson River, saving the lives of all of the passengers and crew aboard. The successful outcome was the result of effective teamwork, Sully's dedication to airline safety, his belief that a pilot's judgment must go hand-in-hand with-and can never be replaced by-technology, and forty years of careful practice and training.

Aurora The Pentagon's Secret Hypersonic Spyplane Sweetman, Bill Motorbooks 1993 Soft Cover Donated by Judy Spaulding—August 2007

In this groundbreaking book, Sweetman investigates the many reports of unidentified high-speed aircraft that have circulated since 1988. He argues convincingly that the mystery aircraft's shape and size are an uncannily perfect match to a Mach 6, methane-fueled, ramjet-powered replacement for the Lockheed SR-71 and that—despite official denials—Aurora exists, its cost and official identity buried within a vast secret military budget.

100 Years of Flight Sweetman, Bill Publications International, Ltd. 2002 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Purchased for the Chapter—September 2002 Learn about all of the classic aircraft's—and some of the infamously classic failures. 100 Years of Flight offers a look at everything from the Wright Flyer that started it all to the dogfighting biplanes of World War I that ushered in the era of military aviation. It traces the development of both the Boeing 707 jet airliner, which revolutionized commercial aviation, and the Lockheed-Martin Stealth Fighter, which changed the way wars are fought. More than 100 gorgeous photographs help bring the most important aircraft—including the storied warplanes of World War II and the Space Shuttles—right into your home.

Advanced Aerobatics Szurovy, Geza McGraw-Hill 1997 Donated by Sharon Reeder—March 2012 Soft Cover Next to flying aerobically themselves, this book is the closest pilots can get to the advanced aerobatics experience. For the many pilots who do want or need to learn specific maneuvers, there is no better guidance than this book. A lesson-by-lesson guide, it combines accessible text from aerobatics champions with sequential cockpit view photographs and detailed graphic illustration to provide a hands-on primer on specific advanced aerobatic maneuvers.

The Lore of Flight Taylor, John W. Barnes & Nobles Books 1996 Donated by Carolyn Dugger—December 2007 Between the two-winged, wooden-framed biplane of the Wright Brothers and the jet-powered, high flying giants of today there stretches a fascinating story—the history of flight—that has all the drama, suspense, and excitement of the best fiction. Hundreds of courageous inventors, pilots, engineers, and passengers have played their part, making the story one of failure and tragedy, determination and triumph. The Lore of Flight takes that story and tells it lucidly and expertly from many angles.

Aviators A Photographic History of Flight Taylor, Michael J. H. HarperCollins Publishers 2005 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Sarah Chauvet—July 2009 Aviators presents a photographic history of aviation, from the failed attempts of flying machines at the end of the 19th century, such as Lilienthal's glider, though the Wright brothers and on to the pioneers who spread aviation throughout the world: Louis Blériot's first flight across the Channel in 1909, the first transatlantic crossing in 1919 by John Alcock and Whitten Brown and Amy Johnson's first flight to Australia in 1930. The book examines the rise of the first passenger airlines in the 1920s, too, and chronicles the beginnings of the jet era in the 1940s. The rise of great commercial airliners such as the Jumbo Jet, Concorde and the Airbus are also highlighted to give a comprehensive and absorbing account of the century of powered flight.

The author brings you up to date on some areas of flying that have become crucially important over the past few years: fuel conservation techniques, cabin systems, high pressurization, density altitude operations, and communications procedures.

IFR For VFR Pilots An Exercise in Survival Taylor, Richard L. Delacorte Press/Eleanor Friede 1982 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Pat York—July 2001 “Continued VFR into IFR conditions,” the non-instrument pilot's worst-case scenario, persists as the most frequent cause of weather-related accidents. In this landmark book, Richard Taylor provides VFR pilots with a long-overdue emergency reserve of basic IFR capability, the bare-boned essentials of instrument flying technique, and procedures so urgently needed to cope with and survive an inadvertent encounter with low-visibility IFR conditions.

Instrument Flying Taylor, Richard L. Macmillan Publishing Co., Inc. 1978
Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Pat York—July 2001 Revised and expanded, this second edition of Instrument Flying is updated to include the latest developments in instrumentation and techniques. The techniques in this handbook, long a classic in its field, are not found in regulations or manuals. They are the result of long experience in IFR flying—the practical, what-it’s-like information essential to instrument flying.

Barnstormers & Daredevils Tessendorf, K.C. Macmillan Publishing Company 1988

Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Pam Cabak—October 2003 Freewheeling pilots in surplus biplanes roamed the United States in the 1920s, hoping to make a living by giving rides to country folks who had never seen an airplane before. This is the story, in words and paragraphs, of those intrepid young men—and women—from Wiley Post to “Slim” Lindbergh to Gladys Ingle and the 13 Black Cats. Arriving over a new town, they put on displays of aerial acrobatics to draw a crowd, then landed in a nearby field to introduce much of America to the wonders of flight.

High, Wide and Frightened Thaden, Louise Air Facts Press 1973 Hard Cover w/jacket

Donated by Kay Harmon—November 2014 Louise Thaden was born in Bentonville, Arkansas, in November 1905. While still only a young girl, her merits in aviation had already started. In 1928 she set an altitude record of 20,260 feet in a Hiss Travel Air. Another record set in 1929 of 22+ hours for her solo duration flight. Louise Thaden, world-famous aviatrix, ranks as a pioneer of aviation. She won the first Women’s Air Derby in 1929. In 1936, she was the first woman to win the Bendix Transcontinental Air Race. In her book High, Wide and Frightened, Louise Thaden tells of the trials and joys of early flight. Mrs. Thaden is well-known for her many articles in newspapers and magazines.

Fly for Fun Thomas, Bill 1985 Softcover Along with instructing at least 1,000 students from dozens of countries, Bill has made quite a name for himself as an aerobatics competitor. After entering his first contest in 1969 flying a borrowed Citabria, he went on to win a Silver Medal in the 1972 World Championships in France. He was on the USA Aerobatic team from 1971 through 1977. In 1973, he won the Unlimited Class in the International Aerobatic Club’s Championships. And in 1984, he was honored by being named the U.S. Judge for the World Championships in Hungary.

Wildcat Thomas, Craig G.P. Putman’s Sons 1989 Hard Cover w/jacket
Donated by Laura Barnett—June 2003 Wildcat is a fast-moving tale that shifts from London to Moscow to East Berlin to Nepal and back, climaxing in a blazing inferno on a landing strip in Kathmandu.

Our Flight to Adventure An Aerial Odyssey Over Three Continents—Illustrated
Thomas Jr., Lowell & Thomas, Tay Mary Thomas and Lowell Thomas, Jr. 1956 First Edition Hard Cover

There are really three central characters in this easygoing, entertaining book. Tay and Lowell Thomas (a very attractive couple, by the way) are present to share the excitement of an aerial Odyssey with us. And they've brought a friend. For eleven months the Thomases traveled to remote, exotic places like Afghanistan, the Karahorams, and Saudia Arabia in an airplane called "Charlie" (short for N2343C, or "four Three Charlie"). Charlie is the third party.

The Lives of Beryl Markham Trzebinski, Errol W.W. Norton & Company, Inc. 1993

First American Edition Hard Cover w/jacket Donated by Pat York—October 2001

Errol Trzebinski's first book, Silence Will Speak, told the story of Denys Finch Hatton—white hunter, bush pilot, dashing entrepreneur—and his love affair with Karen Blixen (Isak Dinesen), which became the source for the haunting romance in the Oscar-winning film Out of Africa. In The Lives of Beryl Markham, Trzebinski reveals a third side of Finch Hatton and Blixen's relationship: Beryl Markham, a free spirit who attempted to wrest Finch Hatton from the Danish baroness.

Taking Flight My Story by Vicki Van Meter with Dan Gutman Penguin Group 1995
Hard Copy w/dust jacket Donated by Ann Walker—January 2006 How did one twelve-year-old girl accomplish so much? How did she cope with life-threatening situations in the air? What was it like to become an instant celebrity? As told to acclaimed author Dan Gutman, Vicki's story is enthralling. She speaks of the goals she set, of her disappointments and remarkable achievements, and re-creates her two dramatic flights in vivid detail. Written with humor and self-deprecating charm, Taking Flight is the story of how one ordinary girl dared to accomplish some extraordinary things.

I'd Rather be Flying Vasko, Donna Donna M. Vasko 1980 "Putting this collection together was a lot like flying. If I had waited for the perfect page, it would never have gotten off the ground. There are no perfect pilots either, so I've hand lettered every page and, through the flaws, you'll read all about yourself, expressed in familiar one-liners from the ridiculous to the sublime. It is to you, the imperfect pilot who constantly searches for a better way to do it, that I dedicate this book, because I know you're just like me and, truly, I'd rather be flying!"

Just Plane Crazy Biography of Bobbi Trout Veca, Donna Mazzio, Skip Osborne Publisher 1987 Signed by Bobbi Trout A personalized and highly entertaining account of the unusual life of an unusual lady flier who "was there" when much of aviation history was being made.

Wilcox, Robert K. St. Martin's Press 2004 Hard Cover w/dust jacket The U.S. Navy's Blue Angels are the most famous flight demonstration team in the world. Although millions of aviation enthusiasts see their shows every year, the story of the man who formed the squadron has never been told. He is Roy Marlin "Butch" Voris, a World War II ace and one of only two aviators ever to command the Blue Angels twice.

The Art of Instrument Flying Williams, J.R. Tab Books 1988 Hard Cover no dust jacket Donated by Pat York—July 2001 The author of this book covers many areas of instrument flight instruction, including: instrument interpretation, vertigo awareness, physiological factors, attitude instrument flying, airspeed/altitude control to name a few.

Caledonian Skies Wilson, Hugh Archway Publishing 2013 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated and autographed by Hugh Wilson—April 2015 After witnessing a strange German plane in the skies over Scotland in 1939, a seasoned pilot embarks on a dangerous mission to investigate as the world erupts into chaos.

The Right Stuff Wolfe, Tom McGraw-Hill 1979 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Tom Wolfe shows us the hidden Olympus to which all ambitious combat and test pilots aspired, the top of the pyramid of the right stuff. And we learn the nature of the ineffable pilot's grace without which all else meant nothing.

Women Astronauts Woodmansee, Laura S. Apogee Books 2002 Soft Cover Donated by Sarah Chauvet—July 2007 Woman Astronauts is a must for any girl, young woman, or anyone else who wants to learn about women astronauts, what they do, and how they got to where they are today.

Up in the Air Worthylake, Mary M. 1979 Paperback Maverick Publications (autographed by Mary M. Worthylake) Donated by Joanne Nissen—April 2011 Up in the Air is the intensely personal story of an aviator's wife in the early days of commercial aviation. The author describes her experience learning to fly and obtaining a license as the first woman pilot both trained and licensed in Alaska.

Yeager An autobiography Yeager, Chuck and Janos, Leo Bantam Books 1985
Hard Cover w/dust jacket Chuck Yeager tells his whole incredible life story with the same "wide-open, full-throttle" approach that has marked his career as a flier.

Voyager Yeager, Jeana and Rutan, Dick Harper & Row, Publishers 1989
Softcover
Donated by Mona Kendrick—November 2014 The first full account of the daring and pioneering aeronautical adventure, written by the man woman who made it happen. They tell their own stories and how their six-year dream of Voyager was fulfilled—the designing, the building, and the triumphal nine-day flight of the first plane in history to circumnavigate the globe non-stop, without refueling.

My Brothers' Flying Machine Wilbur, Orville, and Me Yolen, Jane Little, Brown and Company 2003
Hard Cover w/dust jacket Found in The Monterey Bay Chapter 99s end room @ Watsonville Airport—September 2007 Here is the story of the Wright brothers, as told by Katharine in Jane Yolen's lyrical prose. Detailed paintings by the award-winning Jim Burke show the complexity of the Wright family's achievements, and the stunning panoramas celebrate their triumph.

Aircraft The Story of Powered Flight Young, John Triune Press 1972 Hard Cover w/dust jacket
Donated by Laura A. Barnett—April 2009 The story of powered aircraft is the most rapid technical adventure ever known in forms of transport. In the span of one lifetime, man has progressed from faltering hops just above the ground—scarcely half the length of a Jumbo Jet—to regular visits to the moon. John Young, prize-winning aviations artist, illustrates the many and varied forms of craft that have been designed to surmount natural obstacles and to carry out the tasks which flying machines are uniquely able to perform.

I Learned About Flying From That From the Editors of Flying Magazine
Macmillan Publishing Company 1983 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Pat York—July 2001

Dozens of first-hand adventures, misadventures, and escapes make this book a flying classic—blending suspenseful reading with valuable lessons for all who fly. The editors of Flying have distilled the best of their magazine's most popular feature, and the pilots who share their most unforgettable moments write with an eloquence born of sharp experience.

I Learned About Flying From That Volume 3 From the editors of Flying Magazine
Tab Books 1993

Hard Cover no dust jacket Donated by Pat York—July 2001 The collection of stories in this book are of people who erred and, through luck or skill—and often both—were allowed to come back to fly again, and ideally, never made the same mistake again. Some are funny, some frightening, some amusing. Read them and weep, smile, shudder, or cringe, but they're presented here for you to learn more about flying from them.

The Instrument Pilot's Library Series:

Aircraft Systems by the editors of IFR and IFR Refresher Belvoir Publications Inc.
1995 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Jim Young—October 2008
The aim of this book is to cover the design and use of these systems from the perspective of an instrument pilot. Here you'll find not only detail on how the systems work—and why they ail, and how to keep them running—but a variety of tips on how to make the best use of the equipment your airplane is fitted with.

Charts & Plates by the editors of IFR and IFR Refresher (2 copies) 1 copy donated by Jim Young—October 2008 Belvoir Publications Inc. 1994 Hard Cover w/dust jacket The editors examine the essential tools of the instrument pilot's trade, the charts and approach plates that make flight in today's instrument environment possible.

IFR Accidents by the editors of IFR and IFR Refresher Belvoir Publications Inc.
1994 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Jim Young—October 2008 The accidents run the gamut from the well-publicized Avianca Flight 052 fuel-exhaustion accident to seemingly simple training mishaps. Each has a full description of the events, along with analysis and commentary by our staff of expert aviators. Instead of just presenting the facts, each of these stories is included with a purpose in mind. Each one contains a lesson. It may be of only academic interest when read, but eventually it may also help the reader get out of a similar bind.

On The Approach by the editors of IFR and IFR Refresher Belvoir Publications

Inc. 1994 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Jim Young—October 2008
This book will cover specific techniques for flying your approaches more smoothly and with greater precision, along with detailed descriptions of how the approaches work. In addition, there are tips for maintaining position awareness during the approach, dealing with ATC, and more.

The Point of Decision by the editors of IFR and IFR Refresher Belvoir Publications, Inc. 1995 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Jim Young—October 2008
In this volume, we'll take a step back and look at the big picture. The topics covered here run the gamut from weather to self-evaluation to flying technique. While the territory covered is broad, all of the articles found here share a common thread; the critical moment at which a decision must be made.

Sweet Talking the System by the editors of IFR and IFR Refresher Belvoir Publications, Inc. 1993
Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Jim Young—October 2008 The editors of IFR and IFR Refresher take you inside America's air traffic control system and tell you what you never learned in training: how to make it work for you.

Training to Proficiency by the editors of IFR and IFR Refresher Belvoir Publications, Inc. 1995 Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Jim Young—October 2008
In this book, the editors of IFR and IFR Refresher take a close look at a critical part of the instrument rated pilot's life: Training, and in particular ongoing training.

Weather For The IFR Pilot by the editors of IFR and IFR Refresher Belvoir Publications, Inc. 1993
Hard Cover w/dust jacket Donated by Jim Young—October 2008 This book represents a collection of the best advice and insight the editors—themselves seasoned instrument pilots—have to give on the subject.

Jane's Encyclopedia of Aviation Compiled and edited by Michael J. H. Taylor
Portland House 1989 Hard Cover w/dust jacket This definitive reference source brings together in one volume five encyclopedic guides to the history of aviation from the days of hot air balloons to today's supersonic transports. Both aviation professionals and enthusiasts will find Jane's Encyclopedia of Aviation to be a fascinating chronicle of the tremendous advances in flight technology.

Close Calls Lessons to Live By Starring Bob Hoover and Wayne Handley
Donated by Joanne Nissen—January 2012 Bob Hoover and Wayne Handley relate their own scary stories and explain how they did, or in some cases didn't get out of trouble. But they survived even the crashes by having a plan in their mind—a what-if strategy developed on a great flying day when there were no problems. In Handley's case, he fought his emotional side (impending death) to apply logic and experience during the crash of his Oracle Raven in California. Incidents are restaged and videotaped.

Warplane A Century of Fight and Flight Donated by Jeanne Hendrickson In the 100 years since the Wright brothers first took to the air, the airplane has evolved from a tentative eye in the sky into the ultimate weapons delivery system. Its role in warfare has grown dramatically through the ages, and as it has taken on new functions, the very way countries wage war has been transformed. WARPLANE explores the evolution of the warplane, and highlights the people and stories behind the key technological advances that have shaped military aviation history.
